DRAFT NAVAL TREATY READY

BUT ISSUES NOT YET SETTLED

POLITICAL HURDLES TO BE CLEARED

BATTLESHIP TONNAGE CAN'T BE DECIDED

London, Feb. 19.
After a two-hour meeting the drafting committee of the Naval Conference to-day completed a draft naval treaty, but the political difficulties and the disagreement over the tonnage of future battleships threaten to hold up the conference for some time.

The French approach to the United States' Department, seeking a compromise, will be referred to Mr. Norman Davis, the head of the American delegation to the conference. Thus, America's reaffirmation of her 35,000-ton battleship policy seems assured.

As Great Britain has tacitly agreed with the Americans to support the big battleship in return for the United States' agreement to a holiday in building big cruisers, the next step is expected to be Franco-British negotiations in the nature of bargaining over a European air pact and Germany's invitation to sign the new naval treaty.

M. Charles Corbin, the French Ambassador to Great Britain, who is heading the French naval conference party, saw Mr. Davis of the United States to-day at 4.30 p.m. Their conversation lasted until 6.30 p.m. M. Corbin sees Mr. Anthony Eden, the British Foreign Minister, to-morrow.—Reuter.

WON'T SCRAP SHIPS

Rome, Feb. 19.
Admiral Count Giuseppe Raineri-Biscia and other high naval officers, were received—by Signor Benito Mussolini, the Prime Minister, to-day. It is understood that questions concerning the Italian Navy's needs and potentialities were discussed, in relation to the problems confronting the London Naval Conference. No solution was reached, according to well-informed quarters, although it is not known precisely to what a solution was sought.

Italy has never broached the subject of reducing battleships below 35,000 tons and is not prepared to consider scrapping the two giants upon which construction is already well advanced. She would not sacrifice these ships for a fresh programme based on battleships of 27,000 tons gross limit.—Reuter.

SPAIN'S CABINET RESIGNS

PRESIDENT WANTS TO RETIRE

LEFTISTS IN POWER

Madrid, Feb. 19.
Premier Portela's Government has resigned, despite President Zamora's desire that it remain in office until the Cortes opens next month.

It is almost certain that Senor Agana will head the new Leftist Government, with Senor Barrios the Minister of the Interior. Both are former Prime Ministers. It is strongly rumored that President Zamora now wishes to resign immediately, since the Government has dissolved itself, but Senor Agana has asked him to await the opening of the Cortes. The President's attitude apparently is a result of the general election's trend to the left, but his desire to leave office was increased by the Government's resignation.

Senor Agana has been asked to form a Cabinet.

No reactionary outbreak is expected from the Fascists, their leader, Senor Gil Robles, having declared that he bows to the people's judgment.

A party of about thirty people in the Cortes, which are still undecided, the latest election returns give the Leftists 237, the Rights 150 and the Centre 60.—Reuter.

PLAN TO EXTEND LEAGUE

THREE COUNCILS SUGGESTED

BRITAIN NOT TAKING LEAD

(Special To "Telegraph")

London, Feb. 19.
The British Government is not contemplating or considering any steps towards the formal revision of the constitution of the League of Nations, declared Lord Stanhope in the House of Lords, in replying to a motion by Lord Rennell.

Lord Rennell had suggested that instead of a single League Council at Geneva, there should be at least three Councils—one each for Europe, America and Asia.

Lord Stanhope, considering with great care the whole question of raw materials and economic nationalism, but it was essential that they must try to settle the Ethiopian conflict before trying to deal with a matter of this kind satisfactorily.

Lord Rennell withdrew his motion.—Reuter Special.

London, Feb. 19.
Replying to a debate raised in the House of Lords by Lord Rennell on the constitution of the League of Nations, the Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, Lord Stanhope, said that for many reasons the British Government was not contemplating or considering any steps for revision of the League Covenant. Any decision in such matter should be unanimous among all the League's members.

(Special To "Telegraph")

(The Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1911. Received, February 20, 8.10 a.m.)
Addis Ababa, Feb. 19.
The Government is maintaining a complete silence regarding the position on the northern front, contenting itself, after the first communiques referring to Ras Mulu Geta's reported defeat, with stating: "Somebody's lying."

Unofficial reports state that the Italians are maintaining a heavy bombardment, with four-inch mountain batteries, which is regarded as the prelude to a further attack.

Meanwhile Ethiopian reinforcements are known to be rushing to the assistance of Ras Seyoum and Ras Kassa, whose strong forces are still hanging on to the Italian flank and if they can maintain their position are likely to cause the Italian command some discomfort.

The Ethiopians expect to have 150,000 men available in the northern sector to meet the next attack from the Italian side.—Reuter Special.

Tells Of Heavy Market Loss

HOWESON'S £300,000 LOSS IN CRASH

London, Feb. 19.
At the resumption of the trial of Garabed Bishirian, John Howeson and Louis Hardy, arising from the pepper market scandal, Howeson gave details of his £300,000 losses in the market crisis.

Accused denied responsibility for heavy additional purchases of pepper on behalf of Messrs. James and Shakespear, Ltd., after September, 1935. Mr. Monckton, appearing for Hardy, declared that the latter was not a party to any conspiracy and was not guilty of any criminal act. Hardy, giving evidence, said Howeson once said he saved the tin industry of the Empire £400,000.—Reuter Special.

REFUNDING LOAN

London, Feb. 19.
The Middlesex County Council is issuing at par £2,500,000 of three per cent. redeemable stock, to be applied for the refunding £1,109,000 of three and half per cent. stock and for new capital development sanctioned by the Ministry of Health.—British Wireless.

Lothian, who claimed that the Covenant would work very well if the nations made up their minds to apply its principles, and suggested that they were holding back from co-operation because they felt their economic security was threatened. Lord Stanhope said the government was giving constant thought to questions such as economic nationalism and access to raw materials, but it was impossible to deal satisfactorily with these questions till the international situation improved.—British Wireless.

ITALIAN-OWNED FUEL OIL OF INSIGNIFICANT VALUE

London, Feb. 19.

The report of the League Committee of Experts on Italian oil supplies has been published in a white paper here. It says the Italian sources of supply are insignificant, except those in the United States, and that oil from the Albanian fields which is owned by Italian interests is of poor quality, and small quantity, since production has just begun.

Synthetic substitutes could not be produced in large quantities by Italy, but she might, for the sake of the economy, use substitutes distilled from the oil of nuts. It is learned from Whitehall that Mr. Anthony Eden, the Foreign

JAPAN'S ATTITUDE ALTERED

Nanking, Feb. 20.
North China issues will be the most prominent subjects for discussion at the forthcoming Sino-Japanese negotiations, according to well-informed Chinese circles.

It is widely believed that the negotiations are being undertaken in order to restore amicable and normal relations. Such a restoration is believed to be more certain in view of the decisions reached at recent conferences between the Japanese ministries.

The opinion is also held in Chinese circles that Japan is unlikely to make any further moves in North China against the Nanking Government.—Reuter.

H.M.S. Wishart's Noted Rescue Recalled

Washington, Feb. 19.
Senator Trammell has introduced a Bill in Congress authorising President Roosevelt to present the Distinguished Service Medal to Commander Todd and the Navy Cross to Lieut.-Comdr. Kitcat, of the British destroyer Wishart, for the rescue of the crew of the U.S.S. Fulton, which was destroyed by fire whilst en route to Hongkong on March 14, 1934.

It was one of the most sensational sea rescues in years, the Wishart running alongside the blazing Fulton and allowing her crew to come aboard by jumping, not a life was lost.—Reuter.

JAPANESE POLICIES QUERIED

BRITISH MINISTER ASKS INFORMATION

SOVIET MENACE STRESSED

Tokyo, Feb. 20.

Sir Robert Clive, British Ambassador, in the course of an interview with the Vice-Minister for Foreign Affairs, is understood to have enquired into Japanese policy in connection with recent border incidents.

Mr. Shigemitsu is reported to have declared that the situation could probably be ameliorated if the Soviet agreed to Japan's proposal for the organisation of a Commission to investigate the Chingehangkao incident and accept the Japanese proposal for the establishment of a Japanese-Manchukuo-Soviet Joint Demarcation Commission.

Meanwhile, the War Office has issued a forty-six page pamphlet commemorating the Russo-Japanese War, and pointing out the difference in Russo-Japanese conditions in 1905 and 1930.

The pamphlet stressed the point that Russia is pursuing the same aggressive policy in the Far East, but the Soviet method is more skillful and more thorough than under Tsardom. Furthermore, it is pointed out that Britain and America, who were Japan's friends in 1905, are now enemies and inimical regarding the carrying out of Japan's mission.—Reuter.

KING AT OLYMPIA DISPLAY

London, Feb. 19.

King Edward VIII fulfilled his first public function when he visited the newly-opened British Industries Fair to-day at Olympia.

Mr. Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade, and Lord Harwood attended His Majesty.

The King received the most cordial welcome on the streets of London, while on a tour of the stands inside the fair his walk was punctuated with cheers.

He first visited the Dominion and Colonial exhibits, where he recalled many incidents of his overseas tours. At New Zealand's stand he tasted some of the prize cheese and at the South African stand he had some Kenya coffee.

By the King's request an informal bower had replaced the "lopper" at the fair, which was the custom of previous years.—Reuter.

London, Feb. 19.
King Edward, while visiting the British Industries Fair to-day, pulled up his trouser-leg and displayed his sock, while arguing in favour of Britons making extensive purchases of new home textiles.

Viewing the exhibit of self-supporting socks, His Majesty said: "I have been wearing socks like that for four years. I am wearing a pair now." And he displayed a pair of black hose with an elastic band woven into the top. "These are jolly good. I wish Britons would try out more new home textiles." (Continued on Page 7.)

NO HOPE FOR LOST AVIATORS

DISASTROUS TEST OF DEFENCES

SIX KILLED IN TWO CRASHES

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1911. Received, February 20, 6 a.m.)

Le Havre, Feb. 19.

No hope remains for the three missing R.A.F. men aboard the lost bomber, which plunged off Le Havre to-night during the exercises designed to test London's air defences and in which 62 big machines participated. Two of these planes were lost, and of their crews of four men each, six perished.

Flying Officer Page was the sole survivor of the craft which plunged into the sea a mile and a half off the French coast. His companions are regarded as dead, French sources state.

Flying Officer Page relates that he and his companions were absolutely lost in the darkness. They had exhausted their fuel and were searching for a landing-place when they fell into the sea.

It appears that Flying Officer Page's S.O.S. message, reporting the shortage of fuel, was not picked up by the Le Havre wireless station. It only reached Le Havre after it had been picked up in England, when it was transmitted to Saint Inglevert, in Northern France, and telephoned from there to Le Havre.

As soon as it was received the Le Havre lifeboat put to sea, but in the meantime two Frenchmen, whose attention had been attracted by the noise of the plane, embarked in the darkness in a leaky Canadian canoe and paddled towards a spot where lights had been visible. After a hard paddle they found Flying Officer Page and threw him a life-belt which he donned. The current carried him ashore. He could not get into the canoe as it was near sinking.

Finally it sank altogether, and the Frenchmen had to swim ashore.—Reuter Special.

OFFICIAL REPORT

London, Feb. 20.
At question-time in the House of Commons, the Under-Secretary for Air, Sir Philip Sassoon, gave particulars of the Le Havre accidents which occurred early to-day.

He said aircraft in one case was engaged in night operations and failed to return to its base. Later, a notification was received from Le Bourget that an Air Force machine and crew of four had alighted on the sea off Le Havre and that one member of the crew had been picked up and the search was being continued.

Later, a signal reported that the aircraft itself had been located 200 yards from the shore, but three members of the crew were still missing. (Continued on Page 7.)

HARDENING TIN PRICE IN LONDON

FURTHER CUT POSSIBLE

London, Feb. 19.
The International Tin Committee's reduction of the quota hardened prices at the afternoon session of the London metal market to the extent of one pound sterling.

Traders point out that the "cut" will not materially affect London's stock position, which even during the period of 90 per cent. production was persistently tight. On the contrary, the Committee's action in adjusting the admittedly undesirable narrowness of London supplies is realised, as increased production only results in an incommensurately small portion reaching that market.

Moreover, the present rate of production is considerably outstripping estimated consumption, and in the event of stocks piling up, the Committee may decide on a further cut in the course of the coming quarter.—Reuter.

REDUCTION OF LONG-TERM INTEREST RATES URGED

London, Feb. 19.

An urgent plea for a further reduction in long-term interest rates, by another increase in the volume of bank money, was made by Mr. J. M. Keynes, the well-known economist, when presiding at the annual meeting of the National Mutual Life Assurance Company.

Mr. Keynes pointed out that the present relative levels of gilt-edged securities and industrial ordinary shares were calculated, unless revised, ultimately to disappoint the holders of the latter.

Share prices presumed not merely the maintenance of present industrial activity, but a further substantial improvement, which would further raise long-term interest rates, can bring about by creating new types of capital developments.—Reuter.

BRITAIN'S RULER LAID TO REST

Thousands wept as the impressive cortege passed on its way to Windsor Castle bearing the body of King George of England. Directly behind the gun-carriage which bore the King's bier, marched the new King, Edward VIII, and his three brothers, the Dukes of Gloucester, York and Kent, pale with a profound grief. The Royal Funeral Procession passing through Windsor on its way to Windsor Castle. What particularly impressed most, apart from the splendid and moving spectacle of the procession itself, was the solemnity and obviously deep feeling of the crowds, which stood in utter silence. As the new King passed along the silent ranks of mourners, women occasionally sobbed. There was no other sound, save that of the tramp of marching men and the rumble of the gun-carriage, while far away bells tolled. (Photo: Topical Press).

The Oak That Saved a King in a Chancery Court Case

JUST over 284 years ago Richard Penderel, of Boscombe, Shropshire, hid Charles II. in an oak tree when the King was being pursued by Cromwell's Roundheads after he had lost the Battle of Worcester in 1651.

This month, in the Chancery Division, descendants of Penderel were concerned in litigation before Mr. Justice Bennett over the pen-

Club, St. James's, Westminster, the present trustees of the rents comprised in the grant.

The respondents were Miss Eleanor Dorothy Catherine Penderel-Brodhurst, and Mr. William Rice, who claimed to be entitled to have an entailed interest in the trusts of the grant, and Mr. Allan Herbert Calder, and Mr. Geoffrey Charles Calder, who claimed to be entitled to an absolute interest under the grant.

Scattered Over World

Mr. F. C. Watmough (for the trustees) said that they were father and son and direct descendants in the male line of the original trustees. The grant in question took the form of a number of rent charges to trustees on trust to pay certain annual sums to seven persons in full with a gift over to the survivor.

The annuities were still being paid to the descendants of this English yeoman family who were scattered all over the world. Originally, this being a Crown grant for services rendered, the grant was unbarred.

Mr. Justice Bennett—The family assisted to conceal the King in an oak tree?

Mr. Watmough—Yes. It was suggested in 1903 that, as the services were rendered at a time when de facto he was not King, the grant was barable, but it was held that this was not so. The trustees acquired the Crown's reversion, and, since then, it is not disputed that the "estates tail" became barable. The question is whether the acquisition of that reversion owing to the form of the grant turns the "estates tail" into "estates in fee".

Annuity in Marks

Mr. Watmough said that the real point was whether the present annuitants were entitled to an absolute interest or an entailed interest only in the annuities.

Some of the annuities were £100 and others 100 marks, which represented about two-thirds of a pound. At some date the annuities were treated as being reduced by one-fourth as some of the rents had failed. There was more than enough to pay the reduced sums, and the trustees wanted to know what to do with the surplus.

Mr. Justice Bennett held that "on the coming into operation of the Law of Property, Entailed Interest Act, the several persons entitled to the annuities in which the 'estates tail' were limited, by the grant, and who had not barred their 'estates tail', became entitled to a corresponding entailed interest."

With reference to the surplus, the judge directed that, subject to the retention of such sums as the trustees considered necessary for the purpose of providing for their costs, charges and expenses, any surplus ought to be distributed yearly between the persons entitled to the annuities rateably in proportion to their respective interests.

Exploitation Of All Africa New Project

Former French Governmental Official Has Plan For Eurafican Union

Diplomats' Interest

Principal European Powers Would join in Promoting Peaceful Penetration

Paris. A French plan for solving the thorny problem of colonies through a redistribution of African raw materials and markets has recently come into the diplomatic limelight.

Sir Samuel Hoare's proposal at Geneva to meet Italy's and Germany's expansionist demands by redistributing not colonial lands but the products and profits of these lands has secured for this project a project of a "Eurafican Conference" whose object would be the intensive development and colonization of the African continent by all the principal European powers.

In view of the Franco-German negotiations expected to begin early this year, when the question of restoring to the Reich some of its former African colonies is almost certain to be raised, this plan of common exploitation of Africa by the European countries takes on added significance.

SEMI-OFFICIAL TONE

Although the project is a private one, there is reason to believe that some of its ideas, at least, are shared in French official quarters. The plan is the work of a former member of the Governmental Council of Morocco, E.-L. Guernier, at present a professor of Political Economy in the "Institut de Hautes Etudes Marocaines."

M. Guernier, in his book, "Africa, Field of Expansion for Europe," acknowledges that the idea is not new, and that "after the Treaty of Versailles, Germany, feeling particularly keenly the effects of its lack of any colonial lands, suggested even then the notion of a plan of commercial organization of Africa." This reference in the opening pages of M. Guernier's work may explain in part the intense interest German diplomatic circles have shown lately in the French proposal.

GERMANY IS SECONDARY

In the reorganization of African production and markets as outlined by M. Guernier, it must be admitted that Germany's role, though not without importance, is distinctly secondary. M. Guernier calls for the convening of an international congress uniting all the principal European powers and African states, which would plan the "peaceful economic penetration and regeneration" of the entire African continent somewhat along the lines followed by Marshal Lyautey in French Morocco.

Presiding over the Eurafican Conference and its work would be a Grand Council, and this supreme council would be composed "exclusively of representatives of the tutelary powers, aided by the African Governors and the delegates of independent territories, that is to say, of the states having charge of the African continent—England, Belgium, Spain, France, Italy, Portugal, with the independent states of Ethiopia, Egypt, Liberia, Union of South Africa."

From this list Germany is conspicuously absent. Semi-official assurances are not lacking in French diplomatic quarters, however, that if any such scheme ever reached the stage of a French governmental project, France would consider it only natural that Germany should have a full share in the direction of the affair.

FOR EMIGRATION

As outlined by M. Guernier, the plan would provide a solution to the pressing European problem of an "annual potential European emigration of over 3,000,000 persons," chiefly from Italy, Germany and England. By investing approximately 40,000,000,000 francs in the development of railroads, highways, air routes, harbours, communications, hydraulic and sanitation schemes over a period of 50 years, the European powers, in M. Guernier's opinion, would build up colonizing areas capable of receiving and supporting from 15,000,000 to 20,000,000 of colonists.

Furthermore, Europe would thus, according to the conclusions of M. Guernier, which he backs up with convincing economic statistics, provide prosperity for its industries and an outlet for its products, while at the same time developing a source of raw materials sufficient for the whole of Europe. For example he estimates that the commerce of Africa, which now totals something like 75,000,000,000 francs yearly, would after 50 years of intense development total at least 300,000,000,000 francs; that is, a figure half as high as the total of European commerce to-day.

The essence of this French plan is, therefore, not redistribution of colonial lands or mandates in Africa, but rather an offer to expansionist countries like Germany and Italy to join with their capital and their exported labour, on a fairer basis in the common exploitation of the African continent.

M. Guernier's plan admittedly requires a certain amount of European unity as a starting point; it does not appear to offer any immediate prospects of bringing that necessary unity nearer.

MOURNING AFTER NIGHT BEFORE!

When the cold light of dawn is only matched by the cold eyes of a critical family, when the mind shrinks from the sticky sickness of the marmalade and recoils from the bald beastliness of the hard-boiled egg, then there is no doubt that the night before has been spent both unwisely and unwell.

But last night's foolishness may be counteracted by this morning's wisdom. A dash of Eno's 'Fruit Salt,' bubbling merrily in a glass of water, has a magic touch. It is hard to believe that such a jolly drink can undertake such serious responsibilities. Yet Eno cleanses the system of clogging waste matter, and leaves the bloodstream vigorous and pure. Headache and nausea are charmed away and you see the world once more through rose-coloured glasses.

attraction at the Queen's Theatre.
The ceremony is the relinquishing of the command of the fleet by an Admiral who completed his last tour of sea-duty and is about to become Commandant of the Navy Academy at Annapolis. The scene was for a motion picture, a film of Academy life that stars Dick Powell and Ruby Keeler. But the spectacle, none the less was absolutely authentic and stirring. Lewis Stone plays the part of Admiral Melville, who has come from a long line of naval ancestors and is the father of Powell whom he hopes will carry on the long tradition. Frederick Burton, another veteran actor, is Admiral Graves, who succeeds him in his command. When an Admiral gives over his fleet to a successor, his four-star flag, indicating his rank, is hauled down from the mast-head, folded and laid over his arm, as the salute gun fires the requisite number of shots in his honour. These scenes engrossed the rapt attention of all officers who were aboard the Pennsylvania, and were pronounced correct in every detail.
The picture is a glamorous romance and a stirring drama with special music by Warren and Dubin. The cast includes Lewis Powell and Miss Keeler, Lewis Stone, Ross Alexander, Joseph Crehan, Richard Foran, Robert Light, Johnny Arledge and hundreds of others. Frank Borzage directed the picture from the screen play by Delmer Daves.

"O'Shaughnessy's Boy"

With all the magic attending such an event, the circus came to Hollywood for the filming of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, "O'Shaughnessy's Boy," co-starring Wallace
Beery and Jackie Cooper, and opening
Sunday at the King's Theatre.
Behind the mushroom growth of the big, three-ring circus, hundreds of M.G.-M. lot was the thorough-going property-department of the studio.
Because of universal familiarity with the circus, perfection was required down to the minutest detail. While the H.M.S. Bounty for "Mutiny on the Bounty" and the battle for "A Tale of Two Cities" are exact reproductions, any mistake in the construction of the circus would be much more quickly spotted. Concrete proof that the order was filled without a hitch is the Big Top, so complete from pink tennardine to the collapse that Director Richard Boles lawski was able to present a full programme of circus entertainment on short notice. For the parade sequence, which the studio planned to be one of the most spectacular of its kind ever filmed, zoos and circus collections of animals, one of the largest and most diversified ever gathered together. The set was a veritable animal "Tower of Babel" as zebras, elephants, simians, leopards, bears, lions, laughing hyenas and other members of the huge menagerie contributed their offerings to the blatant symphonic din. This amid the myriad "props" required to dress up a circus, the thousands of yards of canvas for the Big Top, four carloads of sawdust, a complete outdoor circus kitchen, half a dozen howdahs, yard upon yard of coloured, bespangled material and trappings for the elephants and performers, hundreds of toy balloons and enough lumber for the circus seats to build a twelve-room house. Besides the Big Top, complete quarters were erected for the animal men and circus performers

CORRESPONDENCE

Comparative Morality

(To the Editor, Hongkong Telegraph.)

Sir—"American" letter on the comparative morality of Catholic and other countries must have come as a surprise to many of your readers, since his statements are hardly in accordance with the experience of those who have resided for any considerable time in the Catholic countries of Europe. It would, doubtless, be interesting to have official figures,
but then this would only lead to religious controversy, which is a subject now generally tabooed in newspaper correspondence—certainly in this Colony. Besides, as we saw from the letter to-day's papers, the Catholic Church is not alone in denouncing birth-control: Mrs. Bramwell Booth, head of the Salvation Army, with her wide experience among the poor, condemns it as a foul and loathsome thing. Let us, therefore, not be drawn on an anti-Papal tirade from the subject under discussion, viz., Mrs. Sanger and her mission to the people of the Far East. We are informed that she was "invited" to bring her message to China. It would be of interest to know who extended the invitation and on what authority.

One wonders whether she has also received an "invitation" to Japan, whose people realize so fully the supreme value of a virile and expanding population for the preservation of their country's independence, the building up of the nation's wealth and the accomplishment of their pride imperial purpose.

Just when France (possibly too late), Fascist Italy and Nazi Germany have banned this "foul and loathsome thing" from their nations, and are even putting a premium on large families, the advocates of birth-control openly boast of their success in reducing the English birthrate from 38 to 16 in 60 years! Perhaps when Britain, because of a declining birth-rate, has sunk to the level of a third class Power (what time it takes to get a globe-trotter will be found squinting with his eyes on broken arch of London Bridge) the effigy of some birth-control apostle of this century will fittingly have become the "Guy" of a disillusioned nation's children.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

MARKET IRREGULAR YESTERDAY

New York, Feb. 19. Swan, Culbertson & Fritz. Dow Jones summary of yesterday's market: The market to-day was irregular on profit-taking late in the day, based on the setback in utility issues after an advance throughout the day. Heavy trading carried the industrial average to a high level since 1931, while the rails average was the highest since 1934 before prices declined. At the opening, the market was very active, with blocks of 1,000 to 20,000 shares changing hands. Canadian Pacific, Curtis Wright, Packard and Baker stocks were heavily traded. Motors and oils were the best group performers. Railroad issues eased late in the day, while steel stocks were unable to penetrate Tuesday's highs. The market closed quiet in spite of traders taking their profits. The market for Bonds was irregular. Stocks on the Curb Exchange were lower.

Swan, Culbertson and Fritz. Wall Street Journal Comment: "Railroad companies may cover their fixed charges for the first quarter as compared with an aggregate deficit of $45,450,054 during the same period in 1935. The strength of aircraft stocks is partly due to buying by Europe. Locomotive orders have been increasing in the past week. Detroit is buying automobile stocks on the balance. The possibilities of the chemical business are the apparent reason for the advance in Atlas and Hercules Powder securities. The increased dividend by the Kennecott Copper Corporation will probably be followed by an Anacostia Copper Company dividend. Private advices from London say that British traders are bullish on copper issues."

S. C. & F. New York office cables: Stocks: The market was mixed, but the undertone was good in spite of fresh selling of utility issues. The following company earnings are for the year 1935: The National Biscuit Company $1.31 per share against $1.57 the previous year. The previous year's earnings were $1.64. The Public Service of New Jersey $2.48 for the year ending January 31st, 1936, against $2.75 the previous 12 months. The Union Pacific Railroad Company has earned $911,567 in January, against $674,190 in January, 1935. The Atlas Corporation's assets were $15.25 per share at the end of 1935 against $16.82 at the present time.

Cotton: It is reported that the Producers' Pool plans to abandon transactions in futures, but it is willing to sell March contracts at the average daily "spot" price. The market is quiet.

Wheat: May wheat is steady on weather conditions, but trading was indifferent.

Rubber: The Dutch native tax is now 35 guilders. Manufacturers estimate shipment of cranks in December totalled 4,163,897; production 4,051,288 and stocks on hand 8,195,863. Apprehension of a spread in the Goodyear strike is restraining "spot" buying, but a sharp rebound is probable if the strike is promptly settled.

BRITISH COLONIES' FUTURE

A former Governor of Hong-kong, Baron Lugard, has, we observe, intervened in the discussion which has arisen at Home regarding the proposal that Britain should make some sort of territorial or commercial redistribution of colonies, especially those in Africa. No-one is more qualified to express views on this matter, since Lord Lugard spent a great deal of his life in the service of the Empire on that continent, and knows the people and their outlook intimately. If there should be any transference of mandates, he lays it down as an absolute condition that there should be the willing consent, or the complete indifference, of a large majority of the populations affected. He is convinced, however, that the result in the British mandated territories would be an emphatic desire for no change. One point which Lord Lugard puts forward, as a possible solution, is a return to the "Open Door" policy in the African territories—this, of course, provided other Colonial Powers were prepared to bear their share in the collective effort. Answering the plea of over-crowding and the need of other nations for room to expand, Lord Lugard mentions that England has a population more than double the density per square mile of either Germany or Italy, and he concludes with this pertinent question: "Has every nation which is sufficiently insistent and has taken steps to increase its population a right to claim a Colony for its surplus, and as a field for economic expansion, regardless of whether the territory already has a population of its own?" In this connection, the point cannot be overlooked that this claim for Colonies is not based on any known desire on the part of the territories already controlled by Britain for a change of ruler-ship. Indeed, as Lord Lugard avers, there is every ground for believing that the people of these territories are quite satisfied with the privileges and liberties which they enjoy under the Union Jack. Britain has certainly in no wise betrayed her trust. There may conceivably be room for economic readjustments, provided the movement is made of general colonial application, but the British Government has

The Queen opened the door. A little group of distracted courtiers outside ceased their whispering and stood in silence. A few hours earlier her husband Albert had slipped on a crag while rock-climbing near Namur, and had crashed to his death. The Queen did not yet know.

From the courtiers she learned first that there had been an accident, a serious accident.

That intuition which is every woman's told her the rest.

In the white faces of the courtiers, in their strained voices, she read at once the terrible story which brought to an end thirty-two years of married happiness, and which transformed her from a brilliant, gifted, loving wife into a widow grown suddenly lonely and old for her fifty-eight years.

She went to where her husband's body lay. There were three officers on guard in the room and two nuns praying.

The Queen dismissed them all, and was alone with her dead. She flung herself on her knees in prayer. And there, hours later, the nuns and officers found her when they tiptoed back.

No words can describe that love. While Albert was alive she mirrored it for all the world to see. She was the best-dressed queen in Europe, the most versatile, the most accomplished in all the arts. She studied medicine, and took her M.D. degree. She loved music, and played the violin exquisitely. She was absolutely carefree. She was afraid of nothing.

HER GREATEST DECISION
She was a Bavarian princess by birth, and on the outbreak of war she had to make the great-

NOTES OF THE DAY

HOPE FOR THE REFUGEES

The ratification by Denmark of the International Convention on the Status of Refugees, recently announced, will bring a little much-needed encouragement. The position of the many hundreds of thousands of refugees scattered over the world is perhaps worse to-day than it has ever been. Not only is their economic position not improving, it is actually steadily deteriorating under the stress of economic nationalism in almost every country. The Convention was drawn up in 1933, in an attempt to remove at least some few of the chief disabilities under which refugees suffer. It provides that states shall issue certificates in lieu of passports to refugees residing in their territories; shall not expel refugees except for reasons of national security or public order; shall allow them certain rights in respect of their legal status, and shall not apply against them in all their severity laws etc. enacted for the protection of national labour markets; while in the cases of certain categories of refugees, such laws are suspended altogether. If generally adopted, this Convention would undoubtedly do a good deal—although still not nearly as much as is needed—to alleviate the lot of this most wretched category of human beings, whose sufferings in almost every case are as unmerited as they are severe. Unhappily, only three countries have hitherto ratified, Denmark making the fourth. The matter is particularly urgent in view of the proposals recently made, and now before the League of Nations, to liquidate all the League's work for refugees, except the single favoured category of refugees coming from Germany. One of the recommendations made by the Committee putting forward these proposals is that the 1933 Convention should be widely ratified. If it comes into force in all countries then the effect of the liquidation of Nansen's work will at least be mitigated; otherwise one trembles to think of what the years hold in store both for the existing refugees and the large numbers of new refugees certain to be created by future events.

categorically stated that it is not considering handing over British Colonies or mandated territories to any foreign Power, nor is it contemplating any barter of territories whatever.

BELGIUM'S TRAGIC QUEEN at last FINDS HAPPINESS

BY SPECIAL
CORRESPONDENT

est decision of her life. Should she stand by her husband in his determination to resist the German invasion—or use her influence to secure passive neutrality?

"Fight," she said at once. "If I could, I would open my veins and drain out every drop of Bavarian blood."

She volunteered as a nurse, dressed the soldiers' wounds, and was given the Military Medal for her gallantry and noble example to her people and army.

She renounced all rights of her birth, all contact with her native people, for her husband. It was years after the war before a reconciliation was effected between her and her Bavarian relations. All through the years, wherever she went she radiated her happiness. She took all that life had to offer, and was brave to the point of recklessness. Once in a tour of America she was shown a mountain lion in a cage in California.

She stroked it through the bars; then, before any one could stop her, opened the door and stepped into the cage.

The lion showed temper, snarled and snapped; was anything but the docile animal it had appeared to be before.

Quickly, but calmly, the Queen stepped backwards, out of the door. Then she laughed heartily at the frightened escort who had rushed to assist her, and at the gentle chiding of the King.

"The crown has no meaning," she said once, "unless it is a symbol of service."

THEN came that February morning.

Everything was changed. In life they were inseparable. He was half of her. When he died half of her was dead.

She retired to their castle at Laeken, on the outskirts of Brussels, and was inconsolable.

The vivacious, merry, brilliant Queen who was constantly enriching her circle of friends was no more. Instead was a heart-broken Queen-Mother, with no interest in life, shunning all society.

Soldiers stood at the castle entrance, but no visitors came or went. Except for her son, King Leopold, and his wife, Queen Astrid, and a few privileged people, no one was admitted.

HEALTH BEGAN TO FAIL
Inside the castle everything was as it was on that fateful day when King Albert left to go rock climbing—his desk still covered with piles of books and papers, as if awaiting the royal signature; his clothes hanging as he left them.

She was never very strong, and under the strain of her grief her health began to fail.

She could not sleep. She lost weight constantly. At last, perhaps only just in time, when she weighed only six stone, her doctors intervened.

They urged her to go away, to leave the scene of her sorrow. She acceded. She went to Italy, to her daughter, the Princess of Piedmont.

August, 1935.
The Queen Mother was sitting with her daughter in the beautiful, flower-scented garden of the Villa Rosebery, outside Naples.

They know nothing of that terrible car crash by the placid shores of Lake Lucerne, where death had come suddenly to her son's wife, the beautiful Queen Astrid.

Captain Turinette, aide-de-camp to the Prince of Piedmont, was announced and stood awkwardly before them. When he spoke it was in a slow and thickened voice.

A motor accident... Leopold injured... Astrid...

The death of Queen Astrid was particularly painful to Queen Elizabeth, because it was she who had chosen Astrid as a wife for her son, as an incomparable mate in her opinion.

HELPED TRUE LOVE MATCH

She was the one who facilitated their union, who had taken her son to his bride's Scandinavian home, and who had welcomed the Princess Astrid to the Chateau Pierrefort. She was the one who brought these two charming young people together and who brought about a true love match. She enjoyed the greatest intimacy with the royal couple, and the accident which killed Queen Astrid deprived her of a veritable daughter.

IN the night train that carried her north from Naples to the Brussels so full of memories, the Queen Mother knew quite well the great task that faced her, of comforting her son in his great grief, forgetting her own for his, mothering his motherless children. Knew this, and faced it unflinching.

When she arrived in Brussels, she went straight to the palace of Laeken—the palace where she had nearly died in her own sorrow—and took charge of the three little children. They had been told only the previous day of their mother's death. This was the first day of their tragic realisation.

WHEN THEIR TEARS CEASED
Only two of them—Josephine, aged nine, and Baudouin, aged five—could understand what they had been told. The baby, Albert, aged one, looked, wide-eyed and understanding nothing, on their tears.

The Queen-Mother went down to the nursery, and when she left the tears had ceased.

She came back to her son, who was distraught with grief, and, after a talk with him, decided to take over the care of her grandchildren.

The children were placed in the hands of governesses and nurses, but the Queen-Mother decided to be with them and to try to give them something of the care and intense affection they had known through their mother.

QUEEN ELIZABETH cast aside her own grief and lavished her care and attention on her three motherless grandchildren. She returned to the supreme service she had shown to the world while her husband was alive.

The strains of her violin were heard again in the castle—for the first time in nearly two years. The anxious courtiers heard her laughter mingling with that of the children's—and rejoiced.

Her health improved. She gained weight. Her doctors, impressed, allowed her to spend the early part of the winter in Belgium.

HEARS THEIR PRAYERS

She also sees them to bed and hears their prayers. In the afternoon she often assists at their lessons, and shows the keenest interest in any progress they make in the many subjects they are studying.

The chief tutress is the Comtesse Della Saille, in whom Queen Elizabeth has the greatest confidence, and who is in supreme charge of those who instruct the children.

Queen Elizabeth seems to live to take the place of the lost mother, and her life is one of indulgence and generosity, of self-effacement for the children. When she was away in Naples to take a needed rest in the autumn she showed also the greatest affection for her granddaughter, Maria-Fia.

She insisted on returning to Brussels for Christmas Eve to celebrate Christmas with her grandchildren. There was a great Christmas-tree, around which the children gathered and joyfully tore toys from the illuminated branches.

Queen Elizabeth devotes long hours to her son Leopold, and after dinner they often remain together in long and serious conversation until the time to retire.

The Queen exercises over her son a most profound influence, and has been of the greatest aid to him in the sorrow which has burdened his shoulders since the loss of his father and his wife.

The Queen insists on remaining in the background. She receives no visitors, excepting the most intimate friends.

She lives only for her son and for her grandchildren, and her unique desire is to be the perfect mother and grandmother.

Encouraging Letter From President Of The E. B. A.

S. China Doubtful: Club Hopeful: Police Confident

OUTLOOK FOR SENIOR SHIELD

(By "Veritas")

If you go along to Caroline Hill and ask South China supporters who are going to win on Saturday they will shrug their shoulders enigmatically and answer "Who can tell?" If you slip down to Happy Valley and enquire about the Club's prospects you will be quietly told "We hope to pull it off." But if you visit Police Headquarters and push out a few questions about chances you will be met with a stream of confident assurances that the Police are not only going to win this week, but are a safe bet for the Shield.

We shall probably know the true answers on Saturday evening, in the meantime perhaps we can form a few opinions ourselves.

Seriously I don't think we can take last week's league match between South China "A" and "B" as any fair indicator of their Shield meeting this Saturday.

And I am led to observe this despite the fact that Lee Wai-tong is again standing down and Wong Wing is a doubtful starter for the seniors. Even without these two talented players the "A" combination can, and should win. In fact I am certain they will win by something like a three goal margin.

INCREDIBLE

It was their own fault they lost such a handsome league record, but with Fung King-chung and Ip Pak-wa back in the team it is incredible to conceive of a second defeat. The team generally will be strengthened by the return of Wong Mee-shun to centre-half and Leung Wing-chai to right half. This will mean that Young Shui-yick will not enjoy the freedom he did a week ago when opposed by Lau Hing-choi.

The composition of the "B" team is not definitely known. Pau Ka-ping may not be available and Lee Kam is a doubtful starter. Pau, of course, is a serious loss to the team as his goalkeeping is capable of being raised to such brilliance as to be sufficient to save the side from defeat. It has accomplished this more than once. The team cannot afford to be without Lee Kam, who is a clever back, but even if they do finally play, I doubt if the "A" eleven will be denied victory.

Incidentally Lee Wai-tong is standing down on his own initiative. He requires a complete rest from the game for some time. He is not suffering from physical injury but from playing too much football. He is therefore very wise to give it a rest.

It is impossible to give South China "B" line-up, but the seniors will be represented by:

Wong Wing (or Wong Wah-hai); Li Tin-sang and Lau Mau; Leung Wing-chai, Wong Mee-shun and Leo Kwok-wai; Tao Kwai-shing, Tay Qua-liang, Fung King-chung, Ip Pak-wa and Wong King-chung.

POLICE TO WIN BY ODD GOAL

WELL-MATCHED TEAMS

(By "Veritas")

With all due respect to the Chinese teams, I feel the best and most entertaining football of the Senior Shield semi-finals on Saturday will be supplied by Police and Club at Causeway Bay.

Both are relying on the same teams which scored such handsome victories in the league last week. (Though a Club player has since whispered to me they were lucky to get away with the points), and there is no question that they are very well matched.

Club did not finally decide on the composition of the side until they had longly discussed the possibility of including a new player to the Colony by name of Wilson, who comes here with an impressive record as a playing member of the well-known Scottish league team Queen's Park Strollers. Unfortunately a water-logged ground during the week when the players assembled for practice gave the selection committee no opportunity for satisfying themselves about Wilson's abilities as practice was confined to a kick about in the middle of the pitch.

CHOSE THEMSELVES

Police didn't find it necessary to spend much time or worry about their lineup. After last week's eight goals and two league points team chose itself. And they feel mighty confident about outcome of the game.

"We are not only going to win this game, but the Shield" averred one official, which, after all, is a jolly good way of approaching a competition of such importance.

I doubt if there will be more than a goal in it at the close. From this

Arsenal Win Cup Replay

CHELSEA-FULHAM DRAW AGAIN

London, Feb. 19.

Arsenal advanced to the quarter-finals of the English Cup to-day when they scored a clear-cut victory in their fifth round replay with Newcastle at Highbury. The Gunners, who are favourites for the Cup, won by three goals to nil, and have now to entertain Barnsley in the sixth round.

Once again Chelsea and Fulham failed to settle their F.A. Cup tie, a second goalless draw resulting. The match this time was played at Stamford Bridge, but the Pensioners failed to take advantage of home ground advantage.—Reuter.

SEVERAL FOOTBALL LEAGUE GAMES

Sunderland, Derby And Huddersfield Win

London, Feb. 19.

Several matches in the first division of the English football league were played to-day, when Sunderland, Huddersfield and Manchester City all scored victories.

Sunderland are now in an impregnable position as leaders and only an astounding collapse can prevent them from winning the championship. They have a clear lead of eight points over Derby and Huddersfield, their nearest rivals, who also won to-day.

AFFILIATION TO THE I.B.B.

LIKELY TO BE APPROVED PRESENTATION OF PROPOSALS URGED FOR JULY

That the scheme for the affiliation of a Far East Lawn Bowls Association to the International Bowling Board has not only a good chance of being favourably received by the I.B.B. in July, but that it will be given the whole-hearted support of Mr. W. G. Cross, President of the English Bowling Association and his colleagues is the encouraging news just received by Mr. B. E. Maughan, one of the prime-movers in the project.

As exclusively announced in the Telegraph last December, Mr. Maughan personally wrote to Mr. Cross placing before him the scheme and asking him for advice and assistance in securing its acceptance by the International Bowling Board.

The idea is to form a combined Association of L.B.A.'s in the Far East to include Hongkong, Shanghai, Hankow, Singapore and Yokohama, so that at events such as the Empire Games, and when Far East teams are playing in England during each summer, they will be endowed with a status which will enable them to play official matches against teams in the British Isles.

FATHERED COLONY BOWLERS

The letter received this week by Mr. Maughan from Mr. Cross, who, in addition to being President of the E.B.A. is a member of the West Wimbledon Bowling Club, is of special interest to lawn bowlers in Hongkong as it was Mr. Cross who took the Hongkong Empire Games players under his special care in 1934. Those who were fortunate enough to participate in that event have very happy recollections of Mr. Cross's hospitality.

The letter received by Mr. Maughan is, of course, a personal one, but he has kindly permitted the Telegraph to publish extracts from it indicating the prospects of a Far East Bowling Association being affiliated to the International Bowling Board.

In the course of this extremely helpful communication Mr. Cross says:

"As President of the English Bowling Association I am particularly happy to think that the game is progressing to the extent it is in Hongkong, and, judging by the show put up by your representatives at the last Empire Games you have good reason to feel proud of the progress."

"I notice you are not content with forwarding what you can towards forwarding the game in Hongkong, but that you have aspirations regarding the forming of an Association to include Hongkong, Shanghai, Hankow, Singapore and Yokohama. As you rightly suppose, this is a matter for the International Bowling Board, which, unfortunately, only meets twice a year."

"... At the International Bowling Board meeting recently, changes in the constitution were proposed and are now under way, by which Associations outside of the British Commonwealth may be admitted to enter on certain conditions, chief of which is that the Association applying must have at least 25 affiliated clubs."

PROSPECTS GOOD

And later Mr. Cross, in discussing the chances of the Hongkong scheme being accepted says—

"This is only my personal opinion, but I feel you have a very good chance of admission in July, and make the suggestion that your new Association shall be called the 'Hongkong and Far East Bowling Association.'"

Mr. Cross then goes on to assure Mr. Maughan that he personally will give the scheme his wholehearted support and that he was certain his colleagues would give theirs. Concluding Mr. Cross expresses appreciation for the congratulations which Mr. Maughan conveyed to him on behalf of Hongkong lawn bowlers on his being elected President of the E.B.A., and adds "That with the knowledge I have of the best wishes of my friends throughout the bowling world, I hope to be able to carry out the office successfully during 1936."

UNTIL THE ANNUAL MEETING

And so the matter has reached its furthest position at present possible. The promoters have assurances of the good will and support of members of the English Bowling Association and the hint that there is every likelihood of an affiliation entry being accepted by the I.B.B. Nothing much can now be done so far as Hongkong is concerned until the annual meeting of the Lawn Bowls Association in March. Then will be the time for the Association to give proper support to the sponsors of this admirable scheme. The co-operation of all the ports affected—Hongkong, Shanghai, Hankow, Singapore and Yokohama is essential if the formation of a combined Association is to become an accomplished fact and its affiliation to the I.B.B. at all possible.

Hongkong and Shanghai have already led the way in the establishment of such an Association and local bowlers can further do their share by giving the scheme additional support at the annual meeting.

Mr. B. W. Bradbury, President of the C.C.C. honoured by his colleagues last night on the eve of his departure for home leave.

C.R.C. BEAT ELIOT HALL "B"

FIRE BRIGADE'S CLOSE CALL

LATEST RESULTS

Chinese Recreation Club inflicted a heavy defeat on Eliot Hall "B" at Causeway Bay last evening, beating their distinguished visitors by seven games to two.

But victory was not so easy as those figures indicate. Every game was hotly contested, one being "fettered" while in every case the losers scored double figures.

Outstanding C.R.C. couple were S. P. Chan and H. T. Woo who collected three games, though they all but lost to C. H. Soon and S. C. Tye, there being only one point in it. Gordon Lum and Liang and W. C. Choy and H. W. Ho both conceded a game, but the C.R.C. were full value for the points.

THE ODD GAME

Fire Brigade had a very close call against Kowloon Tong at Police Headquarters, the result depending on the last game which Anderson and Fisher won more easily than anticipated.

The winners held a lead of 3-1 in games, but were pulled back to three-all and then four-all. One of the biggest surprises was the defeat of Skinner and Stoker by Peter Sin and B. K. Wong, but the turning point of the match was the defeat of P. C. Leung and J. M. Pong, Kowloon Tong's first string by E. L. Shute and F. Greenwood.

The visiting couple had their opportunity of winning but played false tactics at the most crucial stage of the game, feeding Greenwood with drop shots for which he was waiting. If they had opened up the play more it is almost certain they would have won.

Results in detail follow.

FIRE BRIGADE v. KOWLOON TONG

Played at Police Headquarters the Fire Brigade winning by five games to four.

E. L. H. Shute and F. Greenwood (Fire Brigade) beat P. C. Leung and J. M. Pong 21-7; lost to S. A. Gray and G. A. White 13-21; beat P. Sin and B. K. Wong 21-5.

A. L. Fisher and J. L. Anderson (Fire Brigade) beat Leung and Pong 21-4; beat Gray and White 21-11; beat Sin and Wong 21-2.

W. Stoker and L. D. Skinner (Fire Brigade) lost to Leung and Pong 10-21; lost to Gray and White 13-21; lost to Sin and Wong 14-21.

C.R.C. v. ELIOT HALL "B"

Played at Causeway Bay last night, the Chinese Recreation Club winning by 7 sets to 2.

Gordon Lum and S. W. Liang (C.R.C.) beat K. F. Wong and K. L. Yung 21-11; beat B. E. Tan and B. K. Ng 21-11; lost to C. H. Soon and S. C. Tye 11-21.

W. C. Choy and H. W. Ho (C.R.C.) beat Wong and Yung 21-14; lost to Tan and Ng 15-21; beat Soon and Tye 21-15.
S. P. Chan and H. T. Woo (C.R.C.) beat Wong and Yung 21-17; beat Tan (Continued on Page 9).

FAREWELL TO POPULAR LAWN BOWLS PLAYERS

COMPLIMENTARY DINNER AT CRAIGENGOWER

MR. B. W. BRADBURY AND MR. H. BEER FETED

A dinner dance in honour of Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Bradbury and Mr. and Mrs. H. Beer and a presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Beer was held at the Craigengower Cricket Club last evening, and was an unqualified success. The function was presided over by Mr. U. M. Omar.

The hall was beautifully decorated, and over 130 persons sat down to dinner.

Besides Mr. and Mrs. Bradbury and Mr. and Mrs. Beer, other guests present were: Mr. D. W. Munton, Mrs. Steele, Mr. H. Nish and Miss Muriel Robson.

Members present includes Messrs. R. Bana, Wm. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Coates, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Landolt, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Rossetti, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Wood, Dr. V. N. Atienza and party, Mr. H. R. Latham and party, Mr. J. Cunningham and party.

The evening was done by the Hongkong Hotel. Dancing lasted until 2 a.m. to a delightful programme of music supplied by the Hongkong Hotel Orchestra.

On behalf of the members of the Craigengower Cricket Club Mrs. Bradbury presented a tea service set with silver to Mr. Beer, and a cut glass powder bowl with silver top to Mrs. Beer.

Mr. and Mrs. Bradbury will be going home to-morrow on a vacation, while Mr. and Mrs. Beer will be leaving on March 7, and will not be returning.

Mr. U. M. Omar's Speech

Mr. Omar said:—Mr. and Mrs. Bradbury, Mr. and Mrs. Beer, ladies and gentlemen:—It is my happy privilege this evening to propose the main toast, but before I proceed to carry out the heavy responsibility which has been entrusted to my care, I wish, to extend to you, one and all, a very hearty welcome in the name of the Craigengower Cricket Club. I wish particularly to extend a warm welcome to our other guests who are not members of this Club, and to assure them that we are indeed happy to have the pleasure of their company here to-night.

As you are all aware, we are gathered here for the purpose of entertaining our President and Mrs. Bradbury, and to wish them "bon voyage" on the occasion of their departure on holiday. They will be sailing on Friday, and I am sure you will all be glad to know that they will return in due course. We also take the opportunity of bidding a fond and affectionate farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Beer, a farewell tempered with keen disappointment and sincere regrets, as their departure from Hongkong on Saturday, March 7, will mean a great loss to this Club—a loss which we shall find it most difficult to replace.

As it is customary that I should give you a brief review of the records of achievements attained by our guests, I will now endeavour to say a few words with regard to our President, coming on to Mr. Beer later. I do not propose to say anything much with regard to their respective good ladies, except to assure them that we are indeed very happy to have the opportunity of entertaining them to-night.

Mr. Bradbury

Ever since he first arrived in Hongkong years ago, Mr. Bradbury had carved out for himself a reputation as a wizard in the world of high finance, and he now holds the enviable record of being regarded as one of the commercial giants in this Colony. We are, however, more concerned with him as our President, a position he has held on several occasions, after having been a member of this Club for fully 20 years. Ever willing to dig deeply into his pockets in order to uphold a worthy cause, he has by his charming personality and genial disposition endeared himself in the hearts of all with whom he comes into contact. I submit that now would be a good opportunity for me to assure him that we appreciate all that he has done in the interests of this Club. It is a simple matter for me to thank him for his many acts of generosity, more particularly for the entertainment provided annually in what has always been known as the President's Ball. However, words uttered one moment are liable to be forgotten the next, but in his case I want him to believe me when I say that such an expression of thanks and appreciation emanates from the very depths of our hearts.

When we talk about the Craigengower Cricket Club, we must naturally link it with the name of our President, and when we refer to Mr. Bradbury's association with this Club, we cannot help referring to the progress we have made in competitive lawn bowls in this Colony. Ever since this game was introduced here, Mr. Bradbury had, by setting a personal example, and by various means of encouragement, induced our bowlers to indulge in constant practice, as a result of which we now hold the proud distinction of having won the League Championship on seven occasions, once performed the hat-trick, thereby retaining the Shield outright. Hardly a year passes by without this Club being called upon to furnish players to represent Hongkong in the series of Interport games against Shanghai, so that I submit that we have a record of which we have every reason to feel justifiably proud. We shall shortly be starting another season of Lawn Bowls activities, and although thousands of miles away, I have no doubt that Mr. Bradbury's thoughts will be with us, encouraging us to carry on with the good work. I have his authority to assure you that, in the event of this Club again winning the League, which will mean another hat-trick, and upon receipt of a telegram to that effect, he will personally bring back with him suitable souvenirs for presentation to the players concerned.

Front Rank Bowler

Regarded as one of the bowlers in the front rank in this Colony, and one of our outstanding Skips, our President had the satisfaction of representing Hongkong in 1932. You all know the result of the Interport played in Shanghai. You also know that in the game played, he was described by the Manager as the sheet-anchor of the team. But there is one thing you probably do not know, and that is, that he is now one out of two players who have played against Shanghai and never yet tasted defeat. Last year we were appointed to meet him missing the Singles Championship by a narrow margin. We wish him better luck next time, and I assure him that nothing would give his friends and admirers greater satisfaction than to see him trying to outdo that coveted honour in the near future.

During the course of his holiday, he will not doubt be called upon to play for Hongkong again at Wanchai. I sincerely trust that he will be able to emulate the example set by last year's victorious team by bringing home the "Cannon" cup back with him at the end of his holiday.

Mr. Bradbury in his younger days was one of the best shots in Hongkong. He was also a keen cricketer, and is still a tennis player of no mean ability. He has taken an active interest in golf, and with his customary enthusiasm, I have no doubt that he will make good progress in this game.

I believe that I have said enough about Mr. Bradbury to make you realise that he is undoubtedly one of the outstanding sporting personalities in this Colony, one whom we are proud to have as our President. I am sure I am voicing the sentiments of all present when I extend to him and Mrs. Bradbury, our very best wishes for a pleasant trip home, a happy holiday, returning in due course with renewed vigour and vitality to inspire us on to greater heights of achievements in the world of sports. (Applause).

Mr. Beer

I will now crave your kind indulgence in order to say a few words with regard to Mr. Beer. Mr. Beer is the type of person who is never happy unless he is doing something, and that something no matter how big or small always receives his un- (Continued on Page 7.)

distance it does seem that the Police have a livelier attack, especially as Brooks has been reinstated at inside left. Club will find that young man needs a lot of watching. His bustling tactics are enough to put any defence on edge and they usually have the effect of making things much easier for the rest of the attack. Club can expect chief trouble from the left wing where Moss also generally operates with effect, and of course Johnson's through-the-middle dashes are additional problems to be faced by Sydney Strange and George Hill.

STRONGER ALL ROUND

Police undoubtedly have a better all-round team, but against a volatile team like the Club this doesn't always count for a great deal. Club have forwards who can shoot goals just as readily as the Police; only records go to show they are not so consistent in this art.

Robertson's return to the half back line has certainly strengthened this department and if Forrow can keep a wary eye on Johnson and Robertson can position himself aright to cut off Stevens' right wing passes, Police attack can be reduced to impotence. Nothing to choose between the defences. Both are extremely sound.

With nothing like the same confidence which permeates all the Police Stations, I am prepared to forecast an odd-goal win for the Police. And here are the teams.

Even a small dog—if he has spirit—won't let himself be bullied. If your dog is one of the early morning

"grumblers" the surest remedy is Bob Martin's Condition Powders. Smile if you like! But I think you'll see the wisdom of it later.

Dogs easily become liverish, and their tempers suffer. You see, a dog's skin is non-porous and he cannot keep his blood pure by perspiring. When his blood becomes loaded with impurities—as it is bound to unless he is conditioned regularly—sluggish liver is the result. Keep your dog good-tempered, healthy and companionable by providing him with Bob Martin's Tasteless Condition Powders, which purify and refresh the blood, curing and preventing all blood disorders such as sulky temper, continual scratching, listlessness, loss of appetite, loose coat, eczema and swellings between the toes.

O'SHAUGHNESSY'S BOY

ADAPTED BY BEATRICE FABER
from the

(SYNOPSIS: Windy O'Shaughnessy, world-famous animal trainer had lost his right arm during a dangerous stunt, when Cora his wife, had deserted him, taking his adored four-year-old son Stubby. Wandering as a tramp for eight years he finds Stubby only to discover that the boy hates him. Hastings has taken him back in the circus, but because of worry over Stubby, Windy cannot face the animals. He is through. Now Stubby has just refused his latest peace-offering, a little performing dog.)

THE SILVER FRAME

CHAPTER IX

Stubby lay on the cot in their quarters. Before him was a large unframed photograph of his dead mother.

"Guess he thought he could make me like him, Mom," he said through trembling lips, "by giving me that little dog. But I didn't take it, Mom. Nothing could make me like him. Then he put his face to the picture and the brimming tears spilled over. It had been such a clever little dog. Dog poked her head inside the flap diffidently. Then, receiving no immediate dismissal, she ventured further in, raised her paws and sat up and begged.

"You better get out of here," Stubby threatened as his eyes yearned for her.

"Woof-woof," Dog pleaded, peering from under the bed.

Stubby was torn. He turned to the photograph. "She is awful cute, Mom. But this would never do. You get out of here and go back to him," he said emphatically to the small animal.

Reluctantly, Dog moved toward the door and Stubby watched her with a growing dismay. Suddenly Dog came to a decision. Perhaps, by exerting a little of her charms she might win him after all.

She turned a somersault then looked at Stubby archly. In spite of himself the boy giggled. Encouraged by these approving sounds, Dog rolled over and over with frenzied rapidity, going through her entire repertoire of stunts, ending by jumping on the bed and frantically licking Stubby's face.

"No, go away," Stubby laughed, caught between love and loyalty. "Hey, you tickle."

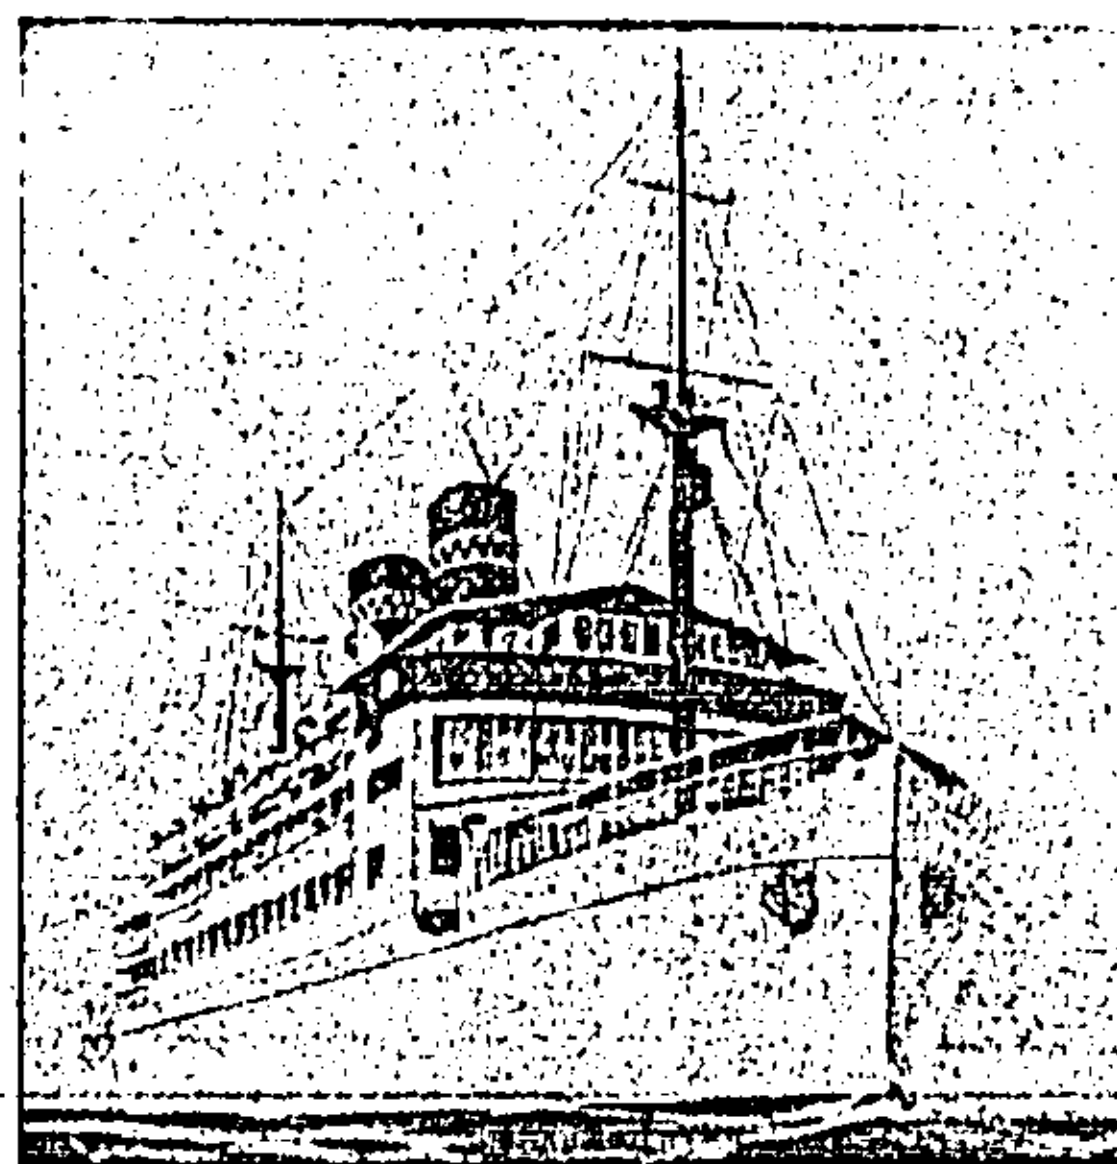

Dog subsided, placed her head on Stubby's knee, then breathed a long contented sigh.

Stubby now turned to the photograph again. "Gee, Mom, it ain't her fault that he picked her up. You can see she don't like him," he continued in a rapid eager whisper. "She just won't go back to him. And I can't throw her out to starve, can I?"

The picture was mute. It could have been conveying its consent. Stubby patted Dog with gentle possessiveness and the short tail began a frenzied, victorious tattoo on the bedcovers.

The silence was over and the circus was preparing to move on. Wind and rain beat over the dismantled tents. Pitch flares spit back in the darkness and wet, as the animals were herded into their moving wagons.

TOKYO ELECTION

9,000,000 JAPANESE VOTING TO-DAY

Tokyo, Feb. 19. Approximately nine million voters will go to the polls in forty-seven prefectures to-morrow to elect a new parliament and express their opinions on every phase of governmental activity.

While the election in its final analysis is a grudge fight between the Cabinet and the Seiyukai resulting from the Government's dissolution of Parliament, the same issues would have come before the people in April had there been no such conflict.

Taking advantage of the fact that a general election was due this year, the Seiyukai party which fared poorly in the make-up of the present government, decided to torment the Government.

The Government in turn decided to deliver a body blow to the Seiyukai. It is still a question who started the skirmishing. Seiyukai announced that it was displeased with the general policies of the Government and would offer a motion of non-confidence when the Diet convened on January 21. The Government let it be known that it would obtain imperial sanction for dissolution before the motion was introduced.

The Government carried out its threat and the matter of confidence or non-confidence goes before the people. All males of sound mind and who are earning their own living are entitled to vote to-morrow. There are 13,100,000 eligible. About one fourth of the eligible are expected to refrain from voting.

The Seiyukai party has been the majority party but in the present cabinet members of the Minseitō party predominate.

Constitutional Argument

Outstanding among the Seiyukai's complaints against the present Cabinet is that it failed to handle in satisfactory manner the question of national policy which arose following a book on the Japanese Constitution by Dr. Tatsukichi Minobe, professor in the Imperial University of Tokyo. Dr. Minobe contended that the Emperor was the highest organ of the Government in contradiction to the generally accepted theory and practice that the Emperor is the Government. The Seiyukai demanded that the Government issue a clear statement of policy on the matter. A statement was issued after long debate. The Seiyukai party asserted that it was not sufficiently forceful regarding the accepted theory. The Minseitō party holds a contrary opinion.

While there are many other issues in the platforms, the so-called "Emperor Organ" theory and the fact that the Seiyukai for the last two or three years when the present government was formed, are the cardinal issues. What many consider far more important than settling the fight between the party and the Cabinet, is the fact that the election will give the Government and the people first hand knowledge on recent political developments.

It will tell probably the exact strength of the proletarians because they will participate in the election.

Religious Influence

Also the election will reveal the political strength of two large and wealthy religious sects. These are the Tenrikyō or "Sect of Heavenly Reason," and the Omotokyo sect, a religion international in scope. It teaches World union through spiritual means.

Both sects are founded by women and this fact probably represents the maximum influence that the feminine mind will have in to-morrow's election.

The Tenrikyō was founded by Miki Makayama in Yamato province. She died in 1887.

Omotokyo was founded by Nao Deguchi in 1892. She claimed to be possessed by God and her writings were executed in the dark while in trance and were divinely inspired according to her followers.

The combined membership of the two sects is estimated to exceed 15,000,000 persons. Both sects have of late participated in politics.

Police recently raided some of the Omotokyo Centres and arrested Watanabe Deguchi the present leader on the suspicion that some of the teachings were questionable as to loyalty.

Both sects own vast properties and have large cash funds. Reports have been circulated that most of their leaders will support Seiyukai candidates.

The political parties that usually poll the largest votes are in order of membership strength the Seiyukai, Minseitō and Kokumin Dōmei.

This year an entirely new party enters the field. It is the Shintō party headed by Mr. Shinya Uchida, Minister of Railways; Mr. Katsuo Mochizuki, Minister of Communications and Mr. Tatsunosuke Yamazaki, Minister of Agriculture. It is expected to receive a rather small vote. It is understood to have the good will of Minister of Finance, Mr. Korekiyo Takahashi.

There will be independent candidates, neutrals, those representing small proletarian and so-called socialist organizations.

The parties and groups participating in to-morrow's election follow: The parties and their leaders are as follows: Seiyukai, Dr. Katsuro Suzuki, former Home and Justice Minister, respectively. Mr. Chuji Machida, Minister of Commerce and Industry; Kokumin Dōmei, (National League) Mr. Kōzō Adachi, former Home Minister.

Shakai Taishutō, (Social Mass Party) Mr. Isao Abo, former professor of Waseda University; Shōwaikai, (Shōwa Party) Mr. Shinya Uchida, Minister of Railways.

Other Socialist Parties and Neutrals.—United Press.

CHARHAR AND HOPEI

ISSUES ON POINT OF SETTLEMENT

Tientsin, Feb. 19.

While on his way to Tientsin by train, Mr. Hsiao Chen-ying (the Mayor of Tientsin) said that negotiations with the Japanese for the settlement of the Hopei and Charhar problems were more than half finished. As one of the leading members of the Hopei-Charhar Political Council, Mr. Hsiao Chen-ying has assisted General Sung Chieh-yuan in his talks with Major-General Doihara, Chief of the Japanese Military Mission at Mukden.

Mr. Hsiao said that he was confident that Yin Yu-keng's Tungchow autonomous regime would be incorporated with the Hopei-Charhar Political Council in Peking. Full settlement of the North China issue is expected within six weeks.

He also said that an important meeting was scheduled to take place at the Hopei-Charhar Political Council to-morrow, when General Chang Tze-chung will explain the latest developments in Charhar. General Chang is the new Governor of Charhar, appointed by Nanking.

Yin Yu-keng's Status

Major-General Doihara visited Tungchow yesterday. He will consult Yin Yu-keng, chief administrator of the Tungchow Anti-Communist Autonomous Government, on the question of the amalgamation of the Tungchow regime with the Hopei-Charhar Political Council. Before boarding the train for Tungchow, General Doihara talked with General Sung Chieh-yuan at the Hopei-Charhar Council office for about an hour.

Economic Plans Fall

Peiping, Feb. 19.

The South Manchuria Railway has opened offices in Tientsin and is conducting research work but none of its plans has been put into effect.

The powerful Sino-Japanese Industrial Company has adopted a wait-and-while attitude. In the autumn several import and export firms opened branch offices in Tientsin, thus indirectly affecting many local Japanese business men, who have been established here for years. So far this has been one result of Japan's intrusion into North China.

With Japanese capital being diverted elsewhere, local Japanese authorities began to realize that their plans are failing owing to their own aggressiveness.—Union News.

Suiyuan Politics

Nanking, Feb. 19.

A surprisingly small amount of $20,000 was granted by the meeting of the Executive Yuan here yesterday morning for the organization of the Inner Mongolian Autonomous Council in Suiyuan. General Huang Mu-sung has been appointed chief administrator of this Council. The Council is formed for the control of political activities of Mongols in Suiyuan as a counter-movement against the pro-Japanese autonomous council formed by Prince Teh Wang in Inner Mongolia.

General Huang Mu-sung is the Chairman of the Commission of Tibetan and Mongolian Affairs. He headed the Nanking Government's goodwill mission to Tibet in 1924 with success.

Manchukuo Leader's Plan

Peiping, Feb. 19.

General Li Shou-hsin, Manchukuo commander from Dolon, and field commander of the provisional military government at Chungpei, Charhar, is starting westward to-day with his main forces, including a large force of Mongol cavalry, according to a report published in the Asia People's Voice, a Japanese-controlled Chinese paper here.

General Li's first objective is Tungyuan in western Charhar, where he expects to be joined by "a certain army." After effecting this juncture he is expected to launch the long-expected attack on Suiyuan, making first for Hingho northeast of Ping-tichuan.—Union News.

Political Crime

Peiping, Feb. 19.

Further light on the assassination of Mr. Ni Kuan-chow near Kaigan last month is contained in advices reaching here from Pangkiang, Prince Teh's headquarters in northern Charhar. The murder is blamed on soldiers under General Li Shou-hsin, Manchukuo-Mongol commander at Changpei.

Ni Kuan-chow was known to have the confidence of the Central Government, and his visit to Prince Teh just prior to his assassination was believed to have diverted Prince Teh from declaration of independence of Inner Mongolia.

Mongol sources state that Japanese advisers declared there must be no overtures between Prince Teh and the Central Government and wished to bully Prince Teh into acquiescence in the independence plan.

The report concludes that the conversion of Pangkiang into a military base continues apace, Japanese military trucks loaded with supplies are plying constantly between Dolon and Pangkiang.—Union News.

MANY LARGE ORDERS

BRITISH INDUSTRIES FAIR SUCCESS

London, Feb. 19.

Many large orders were placed at the British Industries Fair yesterday, and the second day's attendance of world buyers, both at London and at Birmingham, again passed the figures for last year.

London sections of the Fair are being visited to-day by His Majesty. This is the King's first public engagement since his accession.—British Wireless.

THE "MESSIAH"

HONGKONG SINGERS EXCEL

The Hongkong Singers, under the able baton of Mr. J. Anderson Miller, L.A.M., gave a recital of Handel's "Messiah" at St. John's Cathedral last night.

The recital was, as expected, a great success and the attendance was more than gratifying. Every seat in the Cathedral was occupied and extra seats had to be procured for inter-comers.

A collection was taken on behalf of the Hongkong Benevolent and the Street Sleepers Societies.

The Soloists

The soloists were Mrs. J. Anderson Miller (soprano), Mrs. H. Lockhart (contralto), Mr. W. Phelps (tenor), and the Rev. H. W. Baines (bass).

Mr. Lindsay A. LaFord, F.R.C.O., L.A.M., A.R.C.M., was at the organ, and he is to be congratulated upon the way in which he accompanied the singers.

Mr. Anderson Miller 'as conductor' with his usual sympathy and skill led the singers.

Following the overture, Mr. Phelps (tenor) rendered "Comfort ye My People" with surprising ease and confidence; his voice filling the Cathedral with great clearness. Mrs. Lockhart (contralto) interpreted very beautifully "Behold, a virgin shall conceive."

The Rev. Mr. Baines (bass) gave an impressive rendering of "For behold darkness shall cover the earth." It was a difficult recitative but he sang it with ease and confidence.

Mrs. Anderson Miller (soprano) sang with her usual impressiveness, and her rendering of "There were shepherds abiding in the field," will not be forgotten.

Much praise is due to the orchestra, who accompanied the choir admirably. Their playing of the "Pastoral Symphony" is deserving of the highest praise, especially the violinists.

The Choir

Those who sang in choir were: Sopranos—Mrs. A. B. Addison, Miss H. M. Armstrong, Mrs. W. Alexander, Mrs. R. C. Bates, Mrs. N. E. Bennett, Miss B. Bloom, Miss B. Buddle, Mrs. Kingsley Dibley, Mrs. D. MUI TSAI QUESTION

COLONIAL SECRETARY ON ERADICATION

London, Feb. 19.

In the House of Commons the Colonial Secretary informed Mr. Lunn that he intended to pursue vigorously the suppression of Mui Tsai. It was illegal and he wanted to see less fines and more imprisonment.

Final disappearance of the traffic in girls was not impossible.—Our Own Correspondent.

The Commons View

London, Feb. 19.

In the House of Commons to-day Mr. Lunn drew attention to the finding of the local Committee on Mui Tsai, that while mui tsai in Hongkong were undesirable, any attempt to stop the practice was doomed to failure, and he asked whether the Government accepted that declaration.

Mr. J. H. Thomas, replying for the Government agreed that the sale of girls was undesirable. He did not accept the view that it was impossible to suppress the practice, and declared that the owning of mui tsai in Hongkong was illegal, and he intended to pursue vigorously the policy of securing the final disappearance of mui tsai by means of inspectors and prosecutions.

He had investigated the prosecutions and found far too many fines. He would like to see imprisonment used as a deterrent rather than fines.—Reuters.

BRITAIN'S RULER LAID TO REST

Thousands wept as the impressive cortege passed on its way to Windsor Castle bearing the body of King George of England. Directly behind the gun-carriage which bore the King's bier, marched the new King, Edward VIII, and his three brothers, the Dukes of Gloucester, York and Kent, pale with a profound grief. "The Streets Were Still As On A Summer Night"

The Royal Funeral Procession passing through Windsor on its way to Windsor Castle. What particularly impressed most, apart from the splendid and moving spectacle of the procession itself, was the solemnity and obviously deep feeling of the crowds, which stood in utter silence. As the new King passed along the silent ranks of mourners, women occasionally sobbed. There was no other sound, save that of the tramp of marching men and the rumble of the gun-carriage, while far away bells tolled. (Photo: Topical Press).

The Oak That Saved a King in a Chancery Court Case

JUST over 284 years ago Richard Penderel, of Boscombe, Shropshire, hid Charles II. in an oak tree when the King was being pursued by Cromwell's Roundheads after he had lost the Battle of Worcester in 1651.

This month, in the Chancery Division, descendants of Penderel were concerned in litigation before Mr. Justice Bennett over the pen-

Club, St. James's, Westminster, the present trustees of the rents comprised in the grant.

The respondents were Miss Eleanor Dorothy Catherine Penderel-Brothurst, and Mr. William Rice, who claimed to be entitled to have an entailed interest in the rents of the grant, and Mr. Allan Herbert Calder and Mr. Geoffrey Charles Calder, who claimed to be entitled to an absolute interest under the grant.

Scattered Over World

Mr. F. C. Watmough (for the trustees) said that they were father and son and direct descendants in the male line of the original trustees. The grant in question took the form of a number of rent charges to trustees on trust to pay certain annual sums to seven persons in tail with a gift over to the survivor.

The annuities were still being paid to the descendants of this English yeoman family who were scattered all over the world. Originally, this being a Crown grant for services rendered, the grant was unbarable.

Mr. Justice Bennett—The family assisted to conceal the King in an oak tree?

Mr. Watmough—Yes. It was suggested in 1933 that, as the services were rendered at a time when de facto he was not King, the grant was barable, but it was held that this was not so. The trustees acquired the Crown's reversion, and, since then, it is not disputed that the "estates tail" became barable. The question is whether the acquisition of that reversion owing to the form of the grant turns the "estates tail" into "estates in fee".

Annuity in Marks

Mr. Watmough said that the real point was whether the present annuitants were entitled to an absolute interest or an entailed interest only in the annuities.

Some of the annuities were £100 and others 100 marks, which represented about two-thirds of a pound. At some date the annuities were treated as being reduced by one-fourth as some of the rents had failed. There was more than enough to pay the reduced sums, and the trustees wanted to know what to do with the surplus.

Mr. Justice Bennett held that "on the coming into operation of the Law of Property Entailed Interest Act, the several persons entitled to the annuities in which the 'estates tail' were limited, by the grant, and who had not barred their 'estates tail', became entitled to a corresponding entailed interest."

With reference to the surplus, the judge directed that, subject to the retention of such sums as the trustees considered necessary for the purpose of providing for their costs, charges and expenses, any surplus ought to be distributed yearly between the persons entitled to the annuities rateably in proportion to their respective interests.

Exploitation Of All Africa New Project

Former French Governmental Official Has Plan For Eurafrikan Union

Diplomats' Interest

Principal European Powers Would Join in Promoting Peaceful Penetration

Paris. A French plan for solving the thorny problem of colonies through a redistribution of African raw materials and markets has recently come into the diplomatic limelight.

Sir Samuel Hoare's proposal at Geneva to Italy's and Germany's expansionist demands by redistributing not colonial lands but the products and profits of these lands, has served to focus attention here on a project of a "Eurafrikan Conference" whose object would be the intensive development and colonization of the African continent by all the principal European powers.

In view of the Franco-German negotiations expected to begin early this year, when the question of restoring to the Reich some of its former African colonies is almost certain to be raised, this plan of common exploitation of Africa by the European countries takes on added significance.

Although the project is a private one, there is reason to believe that some of its ideas, at least, are shared in French official quarters. The plan is the work of a former member of the Governmental Council of Morocco, E. L. Guernier, at present a professor of Political Economy in the "Institut de Hautes Etudes Marocaines."

M. Guernier, in his book, "Africa, Field of Expansion for Europe," acknowledges that the idea is not new, and that "after the Treaty of Versailles Germany, feeling particularly keenly the effects of its lack of any colonial lands, suggested even then the notion of a plan of commercial organization of Africa." This reference in the opening pages of M. Guernier's work may explain in part the intense interest in German diplomatic circles have shown lately in the French proposal.

GERMANY IS SECONDARY

In the reorganization of African production and markets as outlined by M. Guernier, it must be admitted that Germany's role, though not without importance, is distinctly secondary. M. Guernier calls for the convening of an international congress uniting all the principal European powers and African states, which would plan the "peaceful economic penetration and regeneration" of the entire African continent somewhat along the lines followed by Marshal Lyautey in French Morocco.

Presiding over the Eurafrikan Conference and its work would be a Grand Council, and this supreme council would be composed exclusively of representatives of the tutelary powers, aided by the African Governors and the delegates of independent territories, that is to say, of the states having charge of the African continent—England, Belgium, Spain, France, Italy, Portugal, with the independent states of Ethiopia, Egypt, Liberia, Union of South Africa.

From this list Germany is conspicuously absent. Semi-official assurances are not lacking in French diplomatic quarters, however, that if any such scheme ever reached the stage of a French governmental project, France would consider it only natural that Germany should have a full share in the direction of the affair.

FOR EMIGRATION

As outlined by M. Guernier, the plan would provide a solution to the pressing European problem of an "annual potential European emigration of over 3,000,000 persons," chiefly from Italy, Germany and England. By investing approximately 45,000,000,000 francs in the development of railroads, highways, air routes, harbours, communications, hydraulic and sanitation schemes over a period of 50 years, the European powers, in M. Guernier's opinion, would build up colonies capable of receiving and supporting from 15,000,000 to 20,000,000 of colonists.

Furthermore, Europe would thus, according to the conclusions of M. Guernier, which he backs up with convincing economic statistics, provide prosperity for its industries and an outlet for its products, while at the same time developing a source of raw materials sufficient for the whole of Europe. For example he estimates that the commerce of Africa, which now totals something like 75,000,000,000 francs yearly, would after 50 years of intense development total at least 300,000,000,000 francs; that is, a figure half as high as the total of European commerce to-day.

The essence of this French plan is, therefore, not redistribution of colonial lands or mandates in Africa, but rather an offer to expansionist countries like Germany and Italy to join, with their capital and their exported labour, on a fairer basis, in the common exploitation of the African continent.

M. Guernier's plan admittedly requires a certain amount of European unity as a starting point. It does not appear to offer any immediate prospects of bringing that necessary unity nearer.

MOURNING AFTER NIGHT BEFORE!

When the cold light of dawn is only matched by the cold eyes of a critical family, when the mind shrinks from the sticky sickliness of the marmalade and recoils from the bald beastliness of the hard-boiled egg, then there is no doubt that the night before has been spent both unwisely and unwell.

But last night's foolishness may be counteracted by this morning's wisdom. A dash of Eno's 'Fruit Salt,' bubbling merrily in a glass of water, has a magic touch. It is hard to believe that such a jolly drink can undertake such serious responsibilities. Yet Eno cleanses the system of clogging waste matter, and leaves the bloodstream vigorous and pure. Headache and nausea are charmed away and you see the world once more through rose-coloured glasses.

CINEMA NEWS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

One of the most impressive ceremonies that the United States Navy knows was enacted on the quarter-deck of the battleship Pennsylvania, of the Pacific Fleet, during the production of the Cosmopolitan picture, "Shipmates Forever," coming attraction at the Queen's Theatre. The ceremony is the relinquishing of the command of the fleet by an Admiral who completed his last tour of sea-duty and is about to become Commandant of the Navy Academy at Annapolis. The scene was for a motion picture, a film of Academy film that stars Dick Powell and Ruby Keeler. But the spectacle noted the less was absolutely authentic and stirring. Lewis Stone plays the part of Admiral Melville, who has come from a long line of naval ancestors and is the father of Powell whom he hopes will carry on the long tradition. Frederick Burton, another veteran actor, plays the part of a successor, his four-star flag, indicating his rank, is hoisted down from the mast-head, folded and laid over his arm, as the salute gun fires the requisite number of shots in his honour. The scene was so much the rapt attention of all officers who were aboard the Pennsylvania, and were pronounced correct in every detail. The picture is a glamorous romance and a stirring drama with special music by Warren and Dubin. The cast includes Lewis Stone, Ruby Keeler, Lewin Stone, Ross Alexander, Joseph Crehan, Richard Foran, Robert Light, Johnny Arledge and hundreds of others. Frank Borzage directed the picture from the screen play by Delmer Daves.

"O'Shaughnessy's Boy"

With all the magic attending such an event, the circus came to Hollywood for the filming of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, "O'Shaughnessy's Boy," co-starring Wallace Beery and Jackie Cooper, and opening Sunday at the King's Theatre. Behind the mushroom growth of the kind ever filmed, zoos and circus winter quarters were used for a prize collection of animals, one of the largest and most interesting ever gathered together. The set was a veritable animal "Tower of Babel" as zebras, elephants, giraffes, leopards, bears, lions, laughing hyenas and lesser members of the huge menagerie contributed their offerings to the blatant symphonic din. This amid the myriad "props" required to dress up a circus, the thousands of yards of canvas for the Big Top, four carloads of sawdust, a complete outdoor circus kitchen, half a dozen howdahs, yard upon yard of coloured, be-spangled material and trappings for the elephants and performers, hundreds of toy balloons and enough lumber for the circus tents to build a twelve-room house. Besides the Big Top, complete quarters were erected for the animal men and circus performers.

who preferred to remain with the show on location. This also proved a boon to the cast; Leona Maricle, Henry Stephenson, Spanky McFarland, Willard Robertson, Sarah Haden and Clarence Muse and the rest found the accommodations convenient between scenes.

"In Caliente"

"In Caliente," First National's latest musical offering with Dolores Del Rio and Pat O'Brien in the stellar roles, has been booked for the Star Theatre beginning to-day. Busby Berkeley, famous creator of screen spectacles, has staged three big song and dance numbers entitled "In Caliente," "Lady in Red" and "Muchacha." In the latter number Phil Regan as a bandit chief, does the singing while Dolores Del Rio is featured in a dancing review. "Lady in Red" is sung by Winifred Shaw, musical comedy star, and "In Caliente" the title song, is sung by a group of entertainers. Another number, a ballad entitled "To Call You My Own" is sung by Phil Regan. The catchy airs and lyrics were written by two famous teams of song writers, Warren and Dubin and Dixon and Wrubel. Glenda Farrell, who plays the part of a blonde menace, will not give Pat O'Brien up, until she discovers that his employer, played by Edward Everett Horton, has more money. Leo Carrillo is the tascally uncle of Miss Del Rio, who tries to profit by the entire transaction. Other cast members include Phil Regan and Winifred Shaw, include Dorothy Dare, Luis Alberni, George Humbert, William Davidson, Harry Holman, Soledad Jimenez, Herman Bing and Florence Fair.

Bette Davis has done it again! The girl whose "Mildred" in "Of Human Bondage" made every woman in the land hate her, and whose "Marie" played opposite Paul Muni in "Bordertown" established her as the "meanest woman on the screen" has turned to light comedy. As a newspaper reporter, she scored an equally great triumph in "Front Page Woman," which opened yesterday at the Queen's Theatre. No-one could have believed that the executive would have believed Miss Davis could be successful in such a role. It is as far from the heavy dramatic portrayals for which she is famous as can be imagined. Even the critics were surprised when the blonde screen menace showed herself a thoroughly capable comedienne in the humorous sequences that light this fast-moving and thrilling story of newspapermen and women, their ways and their lives. Bette is "Ellen Garfield," a job-sister on the staff of the Star who is lusted for the promotion is George Brent, in the role of Curt Devlin, Express reporter, who loves Bette but believes women are bum newspapermen. How Bette surprised to love after making George admit she was a better newspaperman than he was, forms the plot of the story which is from the screen play by Michael Curtiz from the novel by Laird Doyle as adapted by Roy Chanslor and Lillie Hayward.

"The Three Musketeers" Immortal pranksters are those gallant swordsmen, Athos, Porthos, Aramis and d'Artagnan, whose lusty drolleries are vividly set forth in RKO-Radio's film version of Dumas' "The Three Musketeers," now showing at the King's Theatre. They checkmate the all-powerful Cardinal Richelieu, and send his bulwark scurrying from the field with pinked breeches, so that, as Porthos boasts, "They can still bow to the Cardinal, but not sit down." Even their most dangerous exploits are coloured with gay comedy. The sublime, to them, is ever close to the ridiculous. They have avareicious landlords put fat feasts on the cuff, and then take the shirts from their backs for good measure. Equally light-humoured are their reckless generosity. It is this rich comic spirit combined with glamorous adventure in perfect balance, which has kept the Dumas tale alive and fresh for over three generations. And it is with the same stress on the essential humour of the musketeers that Rowland V. Lee has directed and Cliff Field has produced the picture. The Broadway stage star, Walter Abel, portrays the fiery d'Artagnan, with Paul Lukas, Moroni Olsen and Onslow Stevens, playing his companions in arms, Athos, Porthos and Aramis. The distinguished cast further comprises Margot Grahame, Heather Angel, Ian Keith, Raymond Pinchof, John Qualen, Ralph Forbes and Nigel de Bruiler.

CHINESE BANK TO REOPEN

COURT GRANTS APPLICATION

The Ka Wah Savings Bank, Ltd., which was voluntarily wound up some time ago, will shortly resume business as the result of the granting of a petition for the sanctioning of the scheme of arrangement by Mr. Justice R. E. Lindsell, Acting Chief Justice, at the Bankruptcy Court this morning.

The petition was presented by Messrs. Chan Tat-sun, Wu Yee-tung and Pang Yu-wing, the liquidators in the voluntary winding up of the bank, and they were represented by Mr. Eldon Potter, K.C., instructed by Mr. M. W. Lo.

Mr. Potter said the petition was to ask the Court to confirm the sanctioning of the capital of the bank and to sanction the scheme of arrangement whereby the voluntary winding-up would be cancelled and the organisation would recommence business. Both the unsecured creditors and members of the institution had agreed to the presentation of the petition.

The capital of the bank had been reduced from $1,000,000 to $250,000 but the latter sum would in turn be increased to $2,000,000 by the issuance of 175,000 preference shares at $10 each.

His Lordship granted the petition.

divided attention. His happiness is derived from doing things for the benefit of others, and I am sure our President himself has good reason to be thankful to him for the efficient manner in which he conducted the President's Ball for the past two years. Members of this Club with children are no doubt grateful to him for all the time and trouble he had taken in catering for their amusement when he organised and carried out our two previous children's sports. He even devoted his attention to our annual Christmas draw, which has always been appreciated.

He was one of the first to organise our fortnightly whist drives, which have been increasing in popularity. Those of you who have never been to any of our whist drives may never realise the strain and attention required to bring such a function to a successful conclusion. I am glad to make the announcement that, after the departure of Mr. Beer, our whist drives will continue to function, as Messrs. Wood, Way and Cones have expressed their determination to carry on with the good work.

In 1933, Mr. Beer signalled his return to Hongkong by winning the Club's Lawn Bowls Singles Championship, and it is no doubt a matter of satisfaction to him to realise that he was our convener during the two years when we won the League Championship. He achieved Inter-Port distinction in 1934, and for his efficient representation of our interests on the Executive Council of the Hongkong Lawn Bowls Association we also have reason to be thankful to him. I sincerely trust that he will represent Hongkong at Waukegan, and with such stalwarts as our President and Mr. Beer, we may look forward to the result of this game with confidence.

Mr. Beer has proved himself a valuable asset to this Club, and there can be no greater testimony of the high esteem and deep affection in which Mr. and Mrs. Beer are held by us all than the fact that these souvenirs have been subscribed for by members of practically every nationality. (Applause). In asking them to accept these tokens I trust that they will always serve to remind them of their happy association with the Club. I am sure that these souvenirs in calling upon Mrs. Bradbury to make the presentation.

After Mrs. Bradbury had made the presentations, Messrs. Bradbury and Beer expressed their appreciation for the gifts, and the kind things said of them.

BRITISH COLONIES' FUTURE

A former Governor of Hong-kong, Baron Lugard, has, we observe, intervened in the discussion which has arisen at Home regarding the proposal that Britain should make some sort of territorial or commercial redistribution of colonies, especially those in Africa. No-one is more qualified to express views on this matter, since Lord Lugard spent a great deal of his life in the service of the Empire on that continent, and knows the people and their outlook intimately. If there should be any transference of mandates, he lays it down as an absolute condition that there should be the willing consent, or the complete indifference, of a large majority of the populations affected. He is convinced, however, that the result in the British mandated territories would be an emphatic desire for no change. One point which Lord Lugard puts forward, as a possible solution, is a return to the "Open Door" policy in the African territories—this, of course, provided other Colonial Powers were prepared to bear their share in the collective effort. Answering the plea of over-crowding and the need of other nations for room to expand, Lord Lugard mentions that England has a population more than double the density per square mile of either Germany or Italy, and he concludes with this pertinent question: "Has every nation which is sufficiently insistent and has taken steps to increase its population a right to claim a Colony for its surplus, and as a field for economic expansion, regardless of whether the territory already has a population of its own?" In this connection, the point cannot be overlooked that this claim for Colonies is not based on any known desire on the part of the territories already controlled by Britain for a change of rulership. Indeed, as Lord Lugard avers, there is every ground for believing that the people of these territories are quite satisfied with the privileges and liberties which they enjoy under the Union Jack. Britain has certainly in no wise betrayed her trust. There may conceivably be room for economic readjustments, provided the movement is made of general colonial application, but the British Government has

The Queen opened the door. A little group of distracted courtiers outside ceased their whispering and stood in silence. A few hours earlier her husband Albert had slipped on a crag while rock-climbing near Namur, and had crashed to his death. The Queen did not yet know.

From the courtiers she learned first that there had been an accident, a serious accident.

That intuition which is every woman's told her the rest.

In the white faces of the courtiers, in their strained voices, she read at once the terrible story which brought to an end thirty-two years of married happiness, and which transformed her from a brilliant, gifted, loving wife into a widow grown suddenly lonely and old for her fifty-eight years.

That was two years ago. She went to where her husband's body lay. There were three officers on guard in the room and two nuns praying.

The Queen dismissed them all, and was alone with her dead. She flung herself on her knees in prayer. And there, hours later, the nuns and officers found her when they tiptoed back.

No words can describe that love. While Albert was alive she mirrored it for all the world to see. She was the best-dressed queen in Europe, the most versatile, the most accomplished in all the arts. She studied medicine, and took her M.D. degree. She loved music, and played the violin exquisitely. She was absolutely carefree. She was afraid of nothing.

She was a Bavarian princess by birth, and on the outbreak of war she had to make the great-

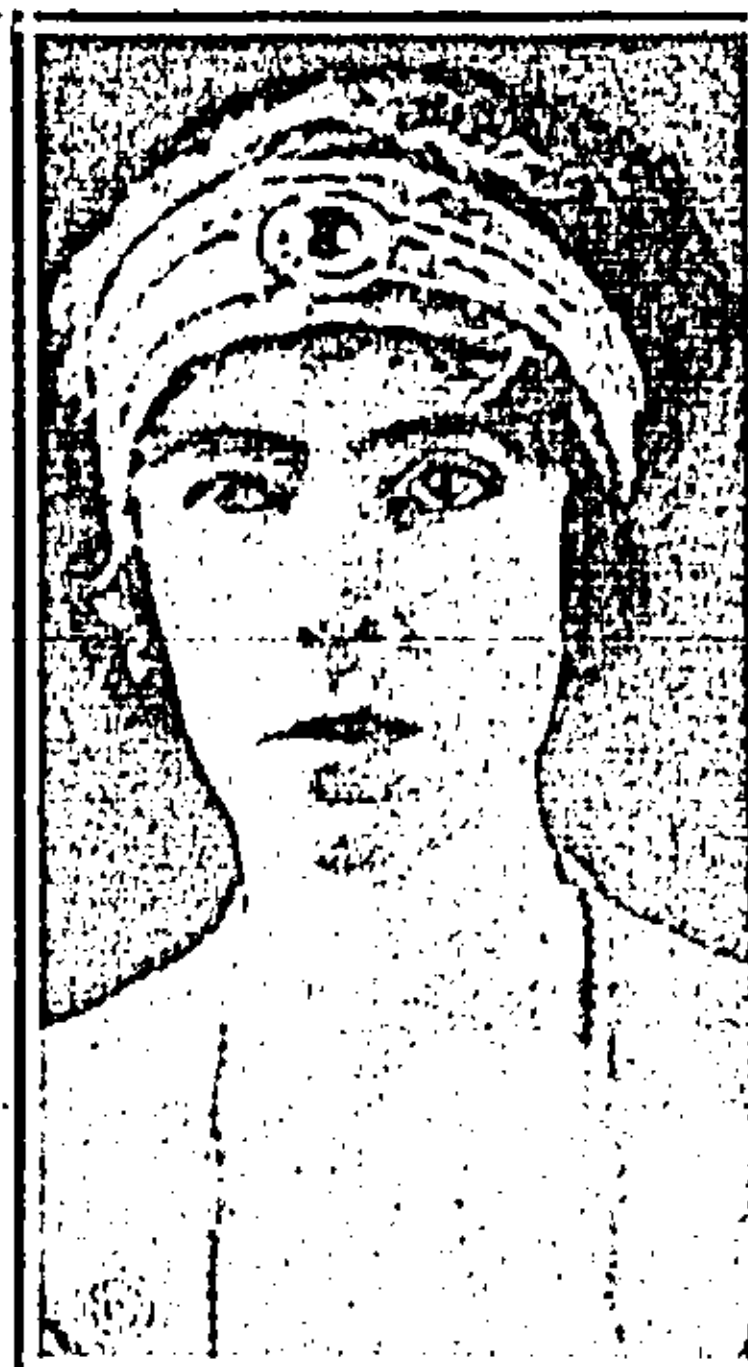

NOTES OF THE DAY

HOPE FOR THE REFUGEES

The ratification by Denmark of the International Convention on the Status of Refugees, recently announced, will bring a little much-needed encouragement. The position of the many hundreds of thousands of refugees scattered over the world is perhaps worse to-day than it has ever been. Not only is their economic position not improving, it is actually steadily deteriorating under the stress of economic nationalism in almost every country. The Convention was drawn up in 1933, in an attempt to remove at least some of the chief disabilities under which refugees suffer. It provides that states shall issue certificates in lieu of passports to refugees residing in their territories; shall not expel refugees except for reasons of national security or public order; shall allow them certain rights in respect of their legal status, and shall not apply against them in all their severity laws etc. enacted for the protection of national labour markets; while in the cases of certain categories of refugees, such laws are suspended altogether. If generally adopted, this Convention would undoubtedly do a good deal—although still not nearly as much as is needed—to alleviate the lot of this most wretched category of human beings, whose sufferings in almost every case are as unmerited as they are severe. Unhappily, only three countries have hitherto ratified, Denmark making the fourth. The matter is particularly urgent in view of the proposals recently made, and now before the League of Nations, to liquidate all the League's work for refugees, except the single favoured category of refugees coming from Germany. One of the recommendations made by the Committee putting forward these proposals is that the 1933 Convention should be widely ratified. If it comes into force in all countries then the effect of the liquidation of Nansen's work will at least be mitigated; otherwise one trembles to think of what the years hold in store both for the existing refugees and the large numbers of new refugees certain to be created by future events.

categorically stated that it is not considering handing over British Colonies or mandated territories to any foreign Power, nor is it contemplating any barter of territories whatever.

BELGIUM'S TRAGIC QUEEN at last FINDS HAPPINESS

BY SPECIAL

est decision of her life. Should she stand by her husband in his determination to resist the German invasion—or use her influence to secure passive neutrality?

"Fight," she said at once. "If I could, I would open my veins and drain out every drop of Bavarian blood." She volunteered as a nurse, dressed the soldiers' wounds, and was given the Military Medal for "her gallantry and noble example to her people and army."

She renounced all rights of her birth, all contact with her native people, for her husband. It was years after the war before a reconciliation was effected between her and her Bavarian relations.

All through the years, wherever she went she radiated her happiness. She took all that life had to offer, and was brave to the point of recklessness. Once in a tour of America she was shown a mountain lion in a cage in California.

She stroked it through the bars; then, before any one could stop her, opened the door and stepped into the cage.

The lion showed temper, snarled and snapped; was anything but the docile animal it had appeared to be before.

Quickly—but calmly—the Queen stepped backwards out of the door. Then she laughed heartily at the frightened escort who had rushed to assist her, and at the gentle chiding of the King.

"The crown has no meaning," she said once, "unless it is a symbol of service."

THEN came that February morning.

Everything was changed. In the life they were inseparable. He was half of her. When he died half of her was dead.

She retired to their castle at Laeken, on the outskirts of Brussels, and was inconsolable.

The vivacious, merry, brilliant Queen who was constantly enriching her circle of friends was no more. Instead was a heart-broken Queen-Mother, with no interest in life, shunning all society.

Soldiers stood at the castle entrance, but no visitors came or went. Except for her son, King Leopold, and his wife, Queen Astrid, and a few privileged people, no one was admitted.

Inside the castle everything was as it was on that fateful day when King Albert left to go rock climbing—his desk still covered with piles of books and papers, as if awaiting the royal signature; his clothes hanging as he left them.

She was never very strong, and under the strain of her grief her health began to fail.

She could not sleep. She lost weight constantly. At last, perhaps only just in time, when she weighed only six stone, her doctors intervened.

They urged her to go away, to leave the scene of her sorrow. She acceded. She went to Italy, to her daughter, the Princess of Piedmont.

August, 1935.

The Queen Mother was sitting with her daughter in the beautiful, flower-scented garden of the Villa Rosebery, outside Naples.

They knew nothing of that terrible car crash by the placid shores of Lake Lucerne, where death had come suddenly to her son's wife, the beautiful Queen Astrid.

Captain Turinette, aide-de-camp to the Prince of Piedmont, was announced and stood awkwardly before them. When he spoke it was in a slow and thickened voice.

A motor accident... Leopold injured... Astrid . . .

The death of Queen Astrid was particularly painful to Queen Elizabeth, because it was she who had chosen Astrid as a wife for her son, as an incomparable mate in her opinion.

She was the one who facilitated their union, who had taken her son to his bride's Scandinavian home, and who had welcomed the Princess Astrid to the Chateau Ciergnon. She was the one who brought these two charming young people together and who brought about a true love match. She enjoyed the greatest intimacy with the royal couple, and the accident which killed Queen Astrid deprived her of a veritable daughter.

IN the night train that carried her north from Naples to the Brussels so full of memories, the Queen Mother knew quite well the great task that faced her, of comforting her son in his great grief, forgetting her own for his, mothering his motherless children. Knew this, and faced it unflinching.

When she arrived in Brussels, she went straight to the palace of Laeken—the palace where she had nearly died in her own sorrow—and took charge of the three little children. They had been told only the previous day of their mother's death. This was the first day of their tragic realisation.

WHEN THEIR TEARS CEASED
Only two of them—Josephine, aged nine, and Baudouin, aged five—could understand what they had been told. The baby, Albert, aged one, looked, wide-eyed and understanding nothing, on their tears.

The Queen-Mother went down to the nursery, and when she left the tears had ceased.

She came back to her son, who was distraught with grief, and, after a talk with him, decided to take over the care of her grandchildren.

The children were placed in the hands of governesses and nurses, but the Queen-Mother decided to be with them and to try to give them something of the care and intense affection they had known through their mother.

QUEEN ELIZABETH cast aside her own grief and lavished her care and attention on her three motherless grandchildren. She returned to the supreme service she had shown to the world while her husband was alive.

The strains of her violin were heard again in the castle—for the first time in nearly two years. The anxious courtiers heard her laughter mingling with that of the children's—and rejoiced.

Her health improved. She gained weight. Her doctors, impressed, allowed her to spend the early part of the winter in Belgium.

HEARS THEIR PRAYERS
She also sees them to bed and hears their prayers. In the afternoon she often assists at their lessons, and shows the keenest interest in any progress they make in the many subjects they are studying.

The chief tutress is the Comtesse Della Saille, in whom Queen Elizabeth has the greatest confidence, and who is, in supreme charge of those who instruct the children.

Queen Elizabeth seems to live to take the place of the lost mother, and her life is one of indulgence and generosity, of self-effacement for the children. When she was away in Naples to take a needed rest in the autumn she showed also the greatest affection for her granddaughter, Maria-Pia.

She insisted on returning to Brussels for Christmas Eve to celebrate Christmas with her grandchildren. There was a great Christmas-tree, around which the children gathered and joyfully tore toys from the illuminated branches.

Queen Elizabeth devotes long hours to her son Leopold, and after dinner they often remain together in long and serious conversation until the time to retire.

The Queen exercises over her son a most profound influence, and has been of the greatest aid to him in the sorrow which has burdened his shoulders since the loss of his father and his wife.

KING AT OLYMPIA DISPLAY

London, Feb. 19. King Edward VIII fulfilled his first public function when he visited the newly-opened British Industries Fair to-day at Olympia.

Mr. Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade, and Lord Harewood attended His Majesty.

The King received the most cordial welcome on the streets of London, while on a tour of the stands inside the fair his walk was punctuated with cheers.

He first visited the Dominion and Colonial exhibits, where he received many incidents of his overseas tours.

At New Zealand's stand he tasted some of the prize cheese and at the South African stand he had some Kenya coffee.

By the King's request an informal bowler hat replaced the "topper" of the fair, which was the custom of previous years.

SUPPORTS HOME TEXTILES
London, Feb. 19. King Edward, while visiting the British Industries Fair to-day, pulled up his trouser-leg and displayed his sock, while arguing in favour of Britons making textiles.

CONFERS HONOURS
London, Feb. 19. After holding the first investiture of his order at Buckingham Palace, at which he conferred on a hundred and sixty persons honours granted by his father in the New Year's honours list, the King to-day fulfilled his first public engagement since his accession, when he visited the Olympia and White City sections of the British Industries Fair.

His Majesty went straight to the stands of the Dominions and Colonies, showing great interest in the agricultural and other exhibits. During a two-hour tour of the exhibition hall, the King made a thorough inspection of the stands and later visited the textile and furnishing stands at White City.

In the House of Commons this afternoon, the Prime Minister, answering a question, said he could not as yet state when an announcement would be possible with regard to the arrangements for the coronation of His Majesty King Edward—British Wireless.

Italo-Austrian Agreement

COMMON VIEWS ON DANUBIAN PROBLEM

Rome, Feb. 19. Following conversations between Signor Savich, the under-secretary for Foreign Affairs in Rome, and the Austrian Foreign Minister, here, dealing chiefly with the Danubian problem, a communique has been issued stating the Ministers reached complete agreement.

The meeting confirmed the intentions of the two Governments, to follow the policy outlined in the Italo-Austro-Hungarian agreement of 1934.—Reuter.

NO NON-NAZI ACTIVITIES

BAN ON BIG BADEN ORGANISATIONS

(Special to "Telegraph")

Berlin, Feb. 19. All important non-Nazi organisations in the state of Baden hitherto not banned are now forbidden by an order of the Reich Minister of the Interior.

Smaller organisations are permitted to exist, but are forbidden to organise camps or practice sports, or indulge in any other sort of outdoor activity.—Reuter Special.

CHINESE STUDENTS FIRM IN REFUSAL

Peiping, Feb. 20. Students at Tsinghua University are now clamouring for the withdrawal of the resignations of 98 members of the faculty out of a total of 74, who resigned en bloc on January 10 owing to the uproar created by the undergraduates following the announcement that the demand for abolition of semi-annual examinations had been rejected.

The examinations were due to start on February 19, but the students have not appeared to write them.—Reuter.

INCIDENT AT RESTAURANT

MR. J. MACPARTLAND ASSAULTED

John Malvicini, boatwain's mate of the U. S. S. Tulsa, appeared before Mr. W. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy this morning, charged with having assaulted Mr. J. Macpartland, proprietor of Mac's Restaurant, No. 42 Lockhart Road, ground floor, last night.

Detective Sergeant D. Fitches said he had received a letter from the complainant stating that he was ill and in bed. A Government doctor appeared to see the complainant. It had gone to see the complainant, the defendant, who was apparently under the influence of liquor, went into Mac's Restaurant, and sat down at a table, resting his head on the table. The complainant was informed by one of the "boys" that the defendant was apparently drunk, and the "boy" was asked to get a ricksha.

The complainant then went up to the defendant and tapped him on the shoulder and was about to ask him to leave, when defendant got up and struck him, knocking him to the ground. Defendant then stood over the complainant and further assaulted him, striking him on the face and kicking him in the chest and stomach.

Mr. Schofield granted 48 hours remand, and allowed bail in $50.

THE TERRITORIAL ARMY

DIRECTOR-GENERAL APPOINTED

London, Feb. 19. Lieutenant General Sir Walter Kirke has been appointed Director General of the Territorial Army, in succession to Lieutenant General Sir Charles Bonham-Carter, who, as announced two days ago, has been appointed Governor and Commander-in-Chief of Malta.

In military circles, comment is made that the appointment of Lieutenant General Kirke comes at a time when the Territorial Army is assuming ever increasing responsibility for the defence of country. Satisfaction is expressed that he brings to his new post an intimate knowledge of the Territorial Army, with which he has been closely associated during the three years he has been General Officer Commanding-in-Chief, Western Command.—British Wireless.

DERBYSHIRE PEAK DISTRICT

PRESERVING FAMOUS BEAUTY SPOT

London, Feb. 19. The preservation of the natural beauty of the famous Peak district in Derbyshire has been assured by a resolution of the Peak Joint Planning Committee, which has been approved by the Minister of Health.

A planning scheme is to be prepared to cover 220,000 acres in the district, including Dove Dale and other places frequented by lovers of Derbyshire, which will safeguard the area from new development involving unsuitable or unsightly building.—British Wireless.

HARDENING TIN PRICE IN LONDON

London, Feb. 19. The International Tin Committee's reduction of the quota hardened prices at the afternoon session of the London metal market to the extent of one pound sterling.

Traders point out that the "cut" will not materially affect London's stock position, which even during the period of 90 per cent. production was persistently tight. On the contrary,

U.S. HONOURS FOR BRITISH OFFICERS

H.M.S. Wishart's Noted Rescue Recalled

Washington, Feb. 19. Senator Trammell has introduced a Bill in Congress authorising President Roosevelt to present the Distinguished Service Medal to Commander Todd and the Navy Cross to Lieutenant Comdr. Kitcat, of the British destroyer Wishart, for the rescue of the crew of the U.S.S. Fulton, which was destroyed by fire whilst en route to Hongkong on March 14, 1934.

It was one of the most sensational sea rescues in years, the Wishart running alongside the blazing Fulton and allowing her crew to come aboard by jumping, not a life was lost.—Reuter.

the Committee's difficulty in adjusting the admittedly undesirable narrowness of London supplies is realised, as increased production only results in an inordinately small portion reaching that market.

Moreover, the present rate of production is considerably outstripping estimated consumption, and in the event of stocks piling up, the Committee may decide on a further cut in the course of the coming quarter.—Reuter.

He admitted having been deported for ten years on June 26, 1933. Defendant was arrested on February 2 at Yu Chau Street. He was kept under medical observation and was found to be suffering from gonorrhoea. Sergeant J. Bentley prosecuted.

Defendant stated that he lived at Hongkong and yesterday he went to see some relatives at Kowloon. He wanted to go home and it was late and he had no money, he tried to get through the barrier without paying.

Sentence of six weeks' hard labour was passed upon Yam Shu-hoi, aged 18, seaman, when he appeared before Mr. Macfadyen at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning, charged with stealing a fountain pen from the pocket of Tan Kong, 27, unemployed, yesterday. Detective-Sergeant Hendridge stated that complainant was watching the clearing away of debris at Woosung Street, near the Po Shing Theatre, when defendant was seen by a uniformed watchman to take the pen from complainant's pocket.

FAR EAST LAWN BOWLS ASSOCIATION PROSPECTS

Encouraging Letter From President Of The E. B. A.

S. China Doubtful: Club Hopeful: Police Confident

OUTLOOK FOR SENIOR SHIELD

(By "Veritas")

If you go along to Caroline Hill and ask South China supporters who are going to win on Saturday they will shrug their shoulders enigmatically and answer "Who can tell?" If you slip down to Happy Valley and enquire about the Club's prospects you will be quietly told "We hope to pull it off". But if you visit Police Headquarters and push out a few questions about chances you will be met with a stream of confident assurances that the Police are not only going to win this week, but are a safe bet for the Shield.

We shall probably know the true answers on Saturday evening, in the meantime perhaps we can form a few opinions ourselves.

Seriously I don't think we can take last week's league match between South China "A" and "B" as any fair indicator of their Shield meeting this Saturday.

And I am led to observe this despite the fact that Lee Wai-tong is again standing down and Wong Wing is a doubtful starter for the seniors. Even without these two talented players the "A" combination can, and should win. In fact, I am certain they will win by something like a three goal margin.

INCREDIBLE

It was their own fault they lost such a handsome league record, but with Fung King-chung and Ip Pak-wa back in the team it is incredible to conceive of a second defeat. The team generally will be strengthened by the return of Wong Mee-shun to centre-half and Leung Wing-chui to right half. This will mean that Yeung Shui-yick will not enjoy the freedom he did a week ago when opposed by Lau Hing-choi.

The composition of the "B" team is not definitely known. Pau Ka-ping may not be available and Lee Kam is a doubtful starter. Pau, of course, is a serious loss to the team as his goalkeeping is capable of being raised to such brilliance as to be sufficient to save the side from defeat. It has accomplished this more than once. The team cannot afford to be without Lee Kam, who is a clever back, but even if they do finally play, I doubt if the "A" eleven will be denied victory.

Incidentally Lee Wai-tong is standing down on his own initiative. He requires a complete rest from the game for some time. He is not suffering from physical injury but from playing too much football. He is therefore very wise to give it a rest.

It is impossible to give South China "B" line-up, but the seniors will be represented by—

Wong Wing (or Wong Wah-kai); Li Tin-sang and Lau Mau; Leung Wing-chui, Wong Mee-shun and Lee Kowk-wai; Tso Kwai-shing, Tay Que-ling, Fung King-chung, Ip Pak-wa and Wong King-chung.

POLICE TO WIN BY ODD GOAL

(By "Veritas")

With all due respect to the Chinese teams, I feel the best and most entertaining football of the Senior Shield semi-finals on Saturday will be supplied by Police and Club at Causeway Bay.

Both are relying on the same teams which scored such handsome victories in the league last week. (though a Club player has since whispered to me they were lucky to get away with the points), and there is no question that they are very well matched.

Club did not finally decide on the composition of the side until they had lengthily discussed the possibility of including a new player to the Colony by name of Wilson, who comes here with an impressive record as a playing member of the well-known Scottish league team Queen's Park Strollers. Unfortunately a water-logged ground during the week when the players assembled for practice gave the selection committee no opportunity for satisfying themselves about Wilson's abilities as practice was confined to a kick about in the middle of the pitch.

CHOSE THEMSELVES

Police didn't find it necessary to spend much time or worry about their lineup. After last week's eight goals and two league points team chose itself. And they feel mighty confident about outcome of the game.

"We are not only going to win this game, but the Shield," averred one official, which, after all, is a jolly good way of approaching a competition of such importance.

I doubt if there will be more than a goal in it at the close. From this (Continued on Page 9).

Mr. H. Beer, well known Crailgover lawn bowls player who was feted by his club colleagues last evening, prior to his return to England.

CHELSEA-FULHAM DRAW AGAIN

London, Feb. 19.

Arsenal advanced to the quarter-finals of the English Cup to-day when they scored a clear-cut victory in their fifth round replay with Newcastle at Highbury. The Gunners, who are favourites for the Cup, won by three goals to nil, and have now to entertain Barnsley in the sixth round.

Once again Chelsea and Fulham failed to settle their F.A. Cup tie, a second goalless draw resulting. The match this time was played at Stamford Bridge, but the Pensioners failed to take advantage of home ground advantage.—Reuter.

AFFILIATION TO THE I.B.B.

LIKELY TO BE APPROVED PRESENTATION OF PROPOSALS URGED FOR JULY

That the scheme for the affiliation of a Far East Lawn Bowls Association to the International Bowling Board has not only a good chance of being favourably received by the I.B.B. in July, but that it will be given the whole-hearted support of Mr. W. G. Cross, President of the English Bowling Association and his colleagues is the encouraging news just received by Mr. B. E. Maughan, one of the prime-movers in the project.

As exclusively announced in the Telegraph last December Mr. Maughan personally wrote to Mr. Cross placing before him the scheme and asking him for advice and assistance in securing its acceptance by the International Bowling Board.

The idea is to form a combined Association of L.B.A.'s in the Far East to include Hongkong, Shanghai, Hankow, Singapore and Yokohama, so that at events such as the Empire Games, and when Far East teams are playing in England during each summer, they will be endowed with a status which will enable them to play official matches against teams in the British Isles.

FATHERED COLONY BOWLERS

The letter received this week by Mr. Maughan from Mr. Cross, who, in addition to being President of the E.B.A., is a member of the West Wimbledon Bowling Club, is of special interest to lawn bowlers in Hongkong as it was Mr. Cross who took the Hongkong Empire Games players under his special care in 1934. Those who were fortunate enough to participate in that event have very happy recollections of Mr. Cross's hospitality.

The letter received by Mr. Maughan is, of course, a personal one, but he has kindly permitted the Telegraph to publish extracts from it indicating the prospects of a Far East Bowling Association being affiliated to the International Bowling Board.

In the course of this extremely helpful communication Mr. Cross says:—"As President of the English Bowling Association I am particularly happy to think that the game is progressing to the extent it is in Hongkong, and, judging by the show put up by your representatives at the last Empire Games you have good reason to feel proud of the progress."

"I notice you are not content with doing what you can towards forwarding the game in Hongkong, but that you have aspirations regarding the forming of an Association to include Hongkong, Shanghai, Hankow, Singapore and Yokohama. As you rightly suppose, this is a matter for the International Bowling Board, which, unfortunately, only meets twice a year."

At the International Bowling Board meeting recently,

changes in the constitution were proposed and are now under way, by which Associations outside of the British Commonwealth may be admitted to enter on certain conditions, chief of which is that the Association applying must have at least 25 affiliated clubs.

PROSPECTS GOOD

And later Mr. Cross, in discussing the chances of the Hongkong scheme being accepted says:—"This is only my personal opinion, but I feel you have a very good chance of admission in July, and make the suggestion that your new Association shall be called the 'Hongkong and Far East Bowling Association.'"

Mr. Cross then goes on to assure Mr. Maughan that he personally will give the scheme his wholehearted support and that he was certain his colleagues would give theirs. Concluding Mr. Cross expresses appreciation for the congratulations which Mr. Maughan conveyed to him on behalf of Hongkong lawn bowlers on his being elected President of the E.B.A., and adds "That with the knowledge I have of the best wishes of my friends throughout the bowling world, I hope to be able to carry out the office successfully during 1936."

UNTIL THE ANNUAL MEETING

And so the matter has reached its furthest position at present possible. The promoters have assurances of the good will and support of members of the English Bowling Association and the hint that there is every likelihood of an affiliation entry being accepted by the I.B.B. Nothing much can now be done so far as Hongkong is concerned until the annual meeting of the Lawn Bowls Association in March. Then will be the time for the Association to give proper support to the sponsors of this admirable scheme. The co-operation of all the ports affected—Hongkong, Shanghai, Hankow, Singapore and Yokohama is essential if the formation of a combined Association is to become an accomplished fact and its affiliation to the I.B.B. at all possible.

Hongkong and Shanghai have already led the way in the establishment of such an Association and local bowlers can further do their share by giving the scheme additional support at the annual meeting.

Mr. B. W. Bradbury, President of the C.C.C. honoured by his colleagues last night on the eve of his departure for home leave.

BADMINTON

FIRE BRIGADE'S CLOSE CALL

LATEST RESULTS

Chinese Recreation Club inflicted a heavy defeat on Eliot Hall "B" at Causeway Bay last evening, beating their distinguished visitors by seven games to two.

That victory was not so easy as those figures indicate. Every game was hotly contested, one being "setted", while in every case the losers scored double figures.

Outstanding C.R.C. couple were S. P. Chan and H. T. Woo who collected three games, though they all but lost to C. H. Soon and S. C. Tye, there being only one point in it. Gordon Lum and Liang and W. C. Choy and H. W. Ho both conceded a game, but the C.R.C. were full value for the points.

THE ODD GAME

Fire Brigade had a very close call against Kowloon Tong at Police Headquarters, the result depending on the last game which Anderson and Fisher won more easily than anticipated.

The winners held a lead of 3-1 in games, but were pulled back to three-all and then four-all. One of the biggest surprises was the defeat of Skinner and Stoker by Peter Sin and B. K. Wong, but the turning point of the match was the defeat of P. C. Leung and J. M. Pong, Kowloon Tong's first string by E. L. Shute and F. Greenwood.

The visiting couple had their opportunity of winning but played false tactics at the most crucial stage of the game, feeding Greenwood with drop shots for which he was waiting. If they had opened up the play more it is almost certain they would have won.

Results in detail follow.

FIRE BRIGADE V. KOWLOON TONG

Played at Police Headquarters the Fire Brigade winning by five games to four.

E. L. H. Shute and F. Greenwood (Fire Brigade) beat P. C. Leung and I. M. Pong 21-17; lost to S. A. Gray and G. A. White 13-21; beat P. Sin and B. K. Wong 21-5. A. L. Fisher and J. L. Anderson (Fire Brigade) beat Leung and Pong 21-4; beat Gray and White 21-11; beat Sin and Wong 21-2. W. Stoker and L. D. Skinner (Fire Brigade) lost to Leung and Pong 10-21; lost to Gray and White 13-21; lost to Sin and Wong 14-21.

C.R.C. V. ELIOT HALL "B"

Played at Causeway Bay last night, the Chinese Recreation Club winning by 7 sets to 2.

(C.R.C.) beat K. T. Wong and K. L. Yung 21-11; beat B. E. Tan and B. K. Ng 21-11; lost to C. H. Soon and S. C. Tye 11-21. W. C. Choy and H. W. Ho (C.R.C.) beat Wong and Yung 21-14; lost to Tan and Ng 15-21; beat Soon and Tye 21-15. S. P. Chan and H. T. Woo (C.R.C.) beat Wong and Yung 21-17; beat Tan and Yung 21-17.

FAREWELL TO POPULAR LAWN
BOWLS PLAYERSCOMPLIMENTARY DINNER
AT CRAIGENGOWER

MR. B. W. BRADBURY AND MR.
H. BEER FETED

A dinner dance in honour of Mr.
and Mrs. B. W. Bradbury and Mr.
and Mrs. H. Beer was held at the Craigengower Cricket Club last evening, and was an unqualified success.
The function was presided over by Mr. U. M. Omar.

The hall was beautifully decorated, and over 130 persons sat down to dinner.

Besides Mr. and Mrs. Bradbury and Mr. and Mrs. Beer, other guests present were: Mr. D. W. Munton, Mrs. Steele, Mr. H. Nish and Miss Muriel Robson.

Members present includes Messrs.
D. Bass, Wm. Allen, Mr. and Mrs.
A. E. Coates, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Lan-dolt, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Rossetti, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Wood, Dr. V. N. Allenza and party, Mr. H. R. Latham and party, Mr. J. Cavanagh and party.

The catering was done by the Hongkong Hotel. Dancing lasted until 2 a.m. to a delightful programme of music supplied by the Hongkong Hotel Orchestra.

On behalf of the members of the Craigengower Cricket Club, Mr.
Bradbury presented a tea service set with silver to Mr. Beer, and a cut glass powder bowl with silver top to Mrs. Beer.

Mr. and Mrs. Bradbury will be going home to-morrow on a vacation, while Mr. and Mrs. Beer will be leaving on March 7, and will not be returning.

Mr. U. M. Omar's Speech

Mr. Omar said:—Mr. and Mrs.
Bradbury and Mr. and Mrs. Beer, ladies and gentlemen.—It is my happy privilege this evening to propose the main toast, but before I proceed to carry out the heavy responsibility which has been entrusted to my care, I wish to extend to you, one and all, a very heartily welcome to the name of the Craigengower Cricket Club. I wish particularly to extend a warm welcome to our other guests who are not members of this Club, and to assure them that we are indeed happy to have the pleasure of their company here to-night.

As you are all aware, we are gathered here for the purpose of entertaining our President and Mrs. Bradbury, and to wish them "bon voyage" on the occasion of their departure on holiday. They will be sailing on Friday evening, and I am sure you will be glad to know that they will return in due course. We also take the opportunity of bidding a fond and affectionate farewell to Mr. and Mrs.
Harold Beer, a farwell tempered with kindness and sincere regrets, as their departure from Hongkong on Saturday, March 7, will mean a great loss to this Club—a loss which we shall find it most difficult to replace.

As it is customary that I should give you a brief review of the records of achievements attained by our guests, I will now endeavour to say a few words with regard to our President, coming on to Mr. Beer later. I do not propose to say anything much with regard to their respective good ladies, except to assure them that we are indeed very happy to have the opportunity of entertaining them to-night.

Mr. Bradbury

Ever since he first arrived in Hongkong years ago, Mr. Bradbury had carved out for himself a reputation as a wizard in the world of high finance, and he now holds the enviable record of being regarded as one of the commercial giants in this Colony. We are, however, more concerned with him as our President, a position he has held on several occasions, after having been a member of this Club for fully 25 years.
Ever willing to dig deeply into his pockets in order to uphold a worthy cause, he has by his charming personality and genial disposition endeared himself in the hearts of all with whom he comes into contact. I submit that now would be a good opportunity for me to assure him that we appreciate all that he has done in the interests of this Club. It is a simple matter for me to thank him for his many acts of generosity, more particularly for the entertainment provided annually in what has always been known as the President's Ball.

However, words uttered one moment are liable to be forgotten the next,
but in his case I want him to believe me when I say that such an expression of thanks and appreciation emanates from the very depths of our hearts.

When we talk about the Craig-engower Cricket Club, we must naturally link it with the name of Mr.
President, and when we refer to Mr.
Bradbury's association with this Club,
we cannot help referring to the programme we have made in competitive lawn bowls in this Colony. Ever since this game was introduced here, Mr.
Bradbury had, by setting a personal example, and by various means of encouragement, induced our bowlers to indulge in constant practice, as a result of which we now hold the proud distinction of having won the League Championship on seven occasions, once performed the hat-trick, thereby retaining the Shield outright. Hardly a year passes by without this Club being called upon to furnish players to represent Hongkong in the series of Interport games against Shanghai, so that I submit that we have a record of which we have every reason to feel justifiably proud. We shall shortly be starting another season of Lawn Bowls activities, and although thousands of miles away, I have no doubt that Mr. Bradbury's thoughts will be with us, encouraging us to carry on with the good work. I have his authority to assure you that, in the event of this Club again winning the League, which will mean another hat-trick, and upon receipt of a telegram to that effect, he will personally bring back with him suitable souvenirs for presentation to the players concerned.

Front Rank Bowler

Regarded as one of the bowlers in the front rank in this Colony, and one of our outstanding Skips, our President had the satisfaction of representing Hongkong in 1932. You all know the result of the Interport played in Shanghai. You also know that in the games he played, he was described by the Manager as the sheet-anchor of the team. But there is one thing you probably do not know, and that is, that he is now one out of two players who have played against Shanghai and never again will play. Last year, when we were disappointed to see him missing the Singles Championship by a narrow margin. We wish him better luck next time, and I assure him that nothing would give his friends and admirers greater satisfaction than to see him carrying off another coveted honour in the not distant future.

During the course of his holiday, he will no doubt be called upon to play for Hongkong again at Wanchai.
I sincerely trust that he will be able to emulate the example set by last year's victorious team by bringing the "Explan" cup back with him at the end of his holiday.

Mr. Bradbury in his younger days was one of the best shots in Hongkong. He was also a keen cricketer, and is still a tennis player of no mean ability. He has taken an active interest in golf, and with his customary enthusiasm, I have no doubt that he will make good progress in this game.

I believe that I have said enough about Mr. Bradbury to make you realize that he is undoubtedly one of the outstanding sporting personalities in this Colony, one whom we are proud to have as our President. I am sure I am voicing the sentiments of all present when I extend to him and Mrs. Bradbury, our very best wishes for a pleasant trip home, a happy holiday, returning in due course with renewed vigour and vitality to inspire us on to greater heights of achievements in the world of sports.
(Applause.)

Mr. Beer

I will now crave your kind indulgence in order to say a few words with regard to Mr. Beer. Mr. Beer is the type of person who is never happy unless he is doing something, and that something no matter how big or small always receives his unqualified approval.

Police To Win By Odd Goal

distance it does seem that the Police have a livelier attack, especially as Brooks has been reinstated at inside left. Club will find that young man needs a lot of watching. His bustling tactics are enough to put any defence on edge and they usually have the effect of making things much easier for the rest of the attack. Club can expect chief trouble from the left wing where Moss also generally operates with effect, and of course Johnson's through-the-middle dashes are additional problems to be faced by Sydney Strange and George Hill.

Police undoubtedly have a better
all-round team, but against a volatile team like the Club this doesn't always count for a great deal. Club has forwards who can shoot goals just as readily as the Police; only records go to show they are not so consistent in this art.

Robertson's return to the half back line has certainly strengthened this department and if Forrow can keep a wary eye on Johnson and Robertson can position himself aright to cut off Stevens' right wing passes, Police attack can be reduced to impotence.

Nothing to choose between the defences. Both are extremely sound.
With nothing like the same confidence which permeates all the Police Standings, I am prepared to forecast an odd-goal win for the Police.
And here are the teams.

SULKY-TEMPERED
DOG

Even a small dog—if he has spirit—won't let himself be bullied. If your dog is one of the

"grumblers" the surest remedy is Bob Martin's Condition Powders.
Smile if you like! But I think you'll see the wisdom of it later.
Dogs easily become liverish, and their tempers suffer. You see, a dog's skin is non-porous and he cannot keep his blood pure by perspiring.
When his blood becomes loaded with impurities—as it is bound to unless he is conditioned regularly—sluggish liver is the result.
Keep your dog good-tempered, healthy and companionable by providing him with Bob Martin's Tasteless Condition Powders, which purify and refresh the blood, curing and preventing all blood disorders such as sulky temper, continual scratching, listlessness, loss of swellings between the toes.

Bob Martin's Condition Powders
are sold in packets of 9 Powders

O'SHAUGHNESSY'S BOY

 BEATRICE FABER
 from the

(SYNOPSIS: Windy O'Shaughnessy, world-famous animal trainer, had lost his right arm during a dangerous stunt, when Corn his wife, had deserted him, taking his adored four-year-old son Stubby, wandering as a tramp for eight years he finds Stubby only to discover that the boy hates him. Hastings, who has taken him back in the circus, but because of worry over Stubby, Windy cannot face the animal. He is through. Now Stubby has just refused his latest peace-offering, a little performing dog.)

THE SILVER FRAME

Stubby lay on the cot in their quarters. Before him was a large unframed photograph of his dead mother. "Guess he thought he could make me like him, Mom," he said through trembling lips, "by giving me that little dog. But I didn't take it, Mom. Nothing could make me like him." Then he put his face to the picture and the brimming tears spilled over. It had been such a clever little dog. There was a tiny zipping bark. Dog poked her head inside the flap diffidently. Then, receiving no immediate dismissal, she ventured further in, raised her paws and sat up and begged.

"You better get out of here," Stubby threatened as his eyes yearned for her.

"Woo-woof," Dog pleaded, pecking from under the bed.

Stubby was torn. He turned to the photograph. "She is awful cute, Mom." But this would never do. "You get out of here and go back to him," he said emphatically to the animal.

Reluctantly, Dog moved toward the door and Stubby watched her with growing dismay. Suddenly Dog came to a decision. Perhaps, by exerting a little of her charms she might win him after all.

She turned a somersault then looked at Stubby archly. In spite of himself the boy giggled. Encouraged by these approving sounds, Dog rolled over and over with frenzied rapidity, going through her entire repertoire of stunts, ending by jumping on the bed and frantically licking Stubby's face.

"No, go away," Stubby laughed, caught between love and loyalty. "Hey, you tickle." Dog subsided, placed her head on Stubby's knee, then breathed a long contented sigh.

Stubby now turned to the photograph again. "Gee, Mom, it ain't her fault that he pecked her up. You can see she don't like him," he continued in a rapid eager whisper. "She just won't go back to him. And I can't throw her out to starve, can I?"

The picture was mute. It could have been conveying its consent. Stubby petted Dog with gentle possessiveness and the short tail began a frenzied, victorious tattoo on the bedcovers.

The show was over and the circus was preparing to move on. Wind and rain bent over the dismantled tents. Pitch flares spit back in the darkness and wet, as the animals were herded into their moving wagons.

"Come on boys," Hastings was yelling. "Get the lead outa' your pants. We'll never get away from here."

Windy's head flinched back, then he walked away.

In one of the smaller tents Jeff was packing his belongings into a battered suitcase while Stubby helped him.

"They wait," Jeff yelled. "Better hurry up there Stubby." They just managed to close the suitcase when the tent was pulled from over them, leaving them out in the open.

Windy stood there. "Jeff, will you drive the cat wagon to the station for me?"

"Sure ah will. Be glad to, Mistah O'Shaughnessy."

"I'll go with you," Stubby said quickly to Jeff.

Windy's shoulders sagged, but he walked quietly away.

The long line of the moving circus, with its joggling wagons, stretched out, snake-like, over the road.

"Jeff was driving the cat wagon. Ah got good news from Mistah Hastings to-day," Stubby looked up interestedly. "Ah's in line for promotion."

"Yeah?"

"Commencin' next spring, Ah gets a much higher up job. Ah'm goin' to work on stunts in the parade."

This was distinctly thrilling to Stubby. "You know how to walk on stilts?"

"Not yet. But Ah'll know by the Spring. When you comes back heah next summer you is gonna see some fancy stilt work."

Stubby's face lightened. "I'm not coming back next summer," he said distantly. "I'm leaving the circus at Evanston."

Jeff shook his head and chuckled his tongue. "Ah remember your mother, she didn't like the circus neither."

"Oh I'm crazy about the circus but..."

"I know. You got no use for your pappy. We's all noticed that. Your mother didn't have no use for him neither." He chuckled, unkindly of Stubby's startled stare. "Boy, did she used to sail into him." He scratched his head. "We-ell I guess you couldn't blame her. She was a lady. She knew us circus folks were beneath her. 'Course she was mild compared to your Aunt Martha. She used to call him names he didn't even understand."

He wagged his head. "Boy when a man's got one woman cryin' and the other one naggin' he's sure in a tough spot."

Stubby sat quite still, hardly knowing whether to be offended or not. "Everybody knows he was cruel to my mother," he said in a low voice.

"Guess he did sorta get drunk once in a while," Jeff said lightly. "But she got even with him for that." He pulled at the reins. "Git around there."

Stubby digested this. "How do you mean?" my mother got even with him?"

"When she took you away," Jeff shook his head in mournful reminiscence. "Boy he went out of his mind when that happened. That's how the tiger got him." He looked past Stubby's white face. "When he went in that cage he was crazy with worry."

He lost all control of that cat. Yessuh, if yoh mother hadn't took you off he'd never lost his arm. She suah got even with your Dad."

A small still figure sat in the dimly lighted interior of one of the animal trains. The drowsy sleeping noises of the beasts mingled with the rhythmic beat of the train wheels. Dog lay stretched out on the floor.

Stubby's face was working with mixed emotions. Jeff's casually told revelation had shaken him deeply. He drew in a trembling breath. Phrases kept running through his mind. "She suah got even with your Dad?" "Your old man gets the bows for that mutt."

Then his father's voice was heard, not in memory but real and sharply anxious. He was at the end of the car with Jeff.

"You say he got on this train? Well then where is he? He ain't in his berth, he ain't no place." His voice cracked with desperation. "If he's run away again..."

"I'm here," Stubby said, in a small voice. "I was putting Dog to bed."

Windy's look of relief was almost ludicrous. He passed his hand over his face in embarrassment. "Thought you got left behind, accident like," he said with nervous joviality. "Well, anytime you're ready to hit the hay your berth's made up." Then, precipitately, he fled.

Thoughtfully, Stubby undressed in the upper berth, stealing occasional glances downward.

But as he took his pajama coat from his suitcase his eyes widened. There was his mother's photograph in a beautifully embossed silver frame. For a long moment Stubby inspected it. His nostrils quivered and his throat contracted with emotion.

He leaned over the edge of the berth. "Are... are you asleep sir?"

(What is Stubby about to do? Is this last peace-offering of Windy's to be refused also? Will he really lose Stubby at Evanston? Don't miss to-morrow's thrilling instalment.)

INDIAN FIRM DISPUTE

ATTEMPT TO WRECK BUSINESS?

The hearing of the petition for the winding-up of the firm of O.K. Gidumal and Wutumul, Ltd., was continued before Mr. Justice R. E. Lindell at the Bankruptcy Court this morning.

The petitioner was Odharmal Girdharimal, one of the four partners of the firm, and he brought the petition on the ground that he was unable to carry on the partnership owing to disagreement with his co-partners. He was represented by Mr. Eldon Potter, K.C., and Mr. Leo D'Almada, junr., instructed by Mr. M. A. da Silva.

Mr. H. G. Sheldon, K.C., instructed by Mr. M.M. Watson, appeared for the other three partners, Messrs. Keramchand, Gidumal and Wutumul, who opposed the petition.

The case for the petitioner having been concluded at the previous hearing, Mr. Sheldon submitted this morning that the firm was not a partnership concern but was a private company, and as such no partnership law could be applied. The firm was originally a partnership but for specific reasons it was turned into a private and limited company. That the firm was not a partnership was shown by the Articles of Association which allowed its members to sell or transfer shares and to get out if they liked. Under the circumstances a winding-up petition for such a company could only be granted when it was found there was no way out.

Continuing, counsel said that Mr. Potter in his opening was forced, for the purpose of the case, to make a proposition that in a private company, a winding-up petition could be granted if grounds for dissolution of partnership existed. Counsel submitted that there was no such proposition in law and proceeded to quote authorities in support of his contention.

FIVE REMEDIES

Counsel then went on to say that the only remedy open to the petitioner, had advanced in bringing this action was that he wanted to get out of the company and to get back his money. The petitioner, however, could have achieved his aim without resorting to this petition because there were five remedies open to him. The remedies were (1) the petitioner could have offered his share for sale; (2) he could have accepted the offer of his co-partners to arbitrate; (3) he could have his share valued and the disputes between him and his co-partners brought before an arbitrator; (4) he could have sold his share, and brought an action for the money owing to him by the firm; and (5) if he did not want his share valued by an arbitrator he could have brought an action for the return of his money.

Counsel said that with these remedies open to the petitioner to get back his money it was not just and equitable that the petition should be granted.

He was not making an appeal for sympathy in this matter but if the order were granted, two of the partners, Messrs. Keramchand and Gidumal, would be deprived of their livelihood. They had each put in $75,000 and they had all the money they had in the evidence before the Court. The only conclusion that they could come to was that these two persons were perfectly honest and decent business men. He could not see any reason why the petitioner should have brought this application when he had the evidence before the Court, unless it was an attempt to wreck the business.

The case is proceeding.

MRS. SANGER WEL-COMED TO COLONY

through the Society for the Protection of Children, some $30,000 a year in relief of needy children, but even that amount only touches the fringe of the work. The mothers themselves are not necessarily anxious to have six or seven children tied to their apron-strings. Some of them soon have to part with the superfluous children which they cannot afford to feed, while others, before such children are born, use harmful means to prevent their birth. Further, the rate of maternal mortality is so great that womenfolk in China generally will only be too glad to welcome a simple, harmless and inexpensive method, whereby the birth-rate can be regulated and lowered. I am sure that Mrs. Sanger and Mrs. How-Martyn have perfected such a method, and I sincerely hope that they will leave behind a keen band of converts, to carry on the good work which they are starting here. Given such zeal, and an efficient organization, I have no doubt that the future of many homes in China will be brighter and the lot of the average Chinese mother will be much happier. I wish you, Mrs. Sanger and Mrs. How-Martyn, every success in your human work here as well as in other places. Ladies and gentlemen, will you rise and drink heartily with me to the health of Mrs. Sanger and Mrs. How-Martyn and to the success of their work here?

MRS. SANGER REPLIES

Mrs. Sanger replied and thanked Mr. and Mrs. Ho Kom-tong for their charming hospitality. She appreciated so much the fine understanding of her host relating to the conditions of the people in Hongkong, and what birth control would do for them. She agreed with Mr. Ho Kom-tong that the mothers of large families would be happy and contented to have their number properly spaced and

MAKING FRIEND OF CHINA

NANKING HOPE FOR PARLEY

Nanking, Feb. 20. North China issues will be the most prominent subjects for discussion at the forthcoming Sino-Japanese negotiations, according to well-informed Chinese circles.

It is widely believed that the negotiations are being undertaken in order to restore amicable and normal relations. Such a restoration is believed to be more certain in view of the decisions reached at recent conferences between the Japanese ministries.

The opinion is also held in Chinese circles that Japan is unlikely to make any further moves in North China against the Nanking Government.

CORRESPONDENCE

Comparative Morality

(To the Editor, Hongkong Telegraph.)

Sir,—“American’s” letter on the comparative morality of Catholic and other countries must have come as a surprise to many of your readers, since his statements are hardly in accordance with the experience of those who have resided for any considerable time in the Catholic countries of Europe. It would, doubtless, be interesting to have official figures, but then this would only lead to religious controversy, which is a subject never generally tabooed in newspaper correspondence—certainly in this Colony. Besides, as we saw from a letter in to-day’s papers, the Catholic Church is not alone in denouncing birth-control: Mrs. Brannwell Booth, head of the Salvation Army, with her wide experience among the poor, condemns it as a “foul and loathsome thing.” Let us, therefore, not be drawn—on an anti-Papist hunt—from the subject under discussion, viz., Mrs. Sanger and her mission to the people of the Far East. We are informed that she was “invited” to bring her message to China. It would be of interest to know who extended the invitation and on what authority.

One wonders whether she has also received an “invitation” to Japan, whose people realize so fully the supreme need of a virile and expanding population for the preservation of their country’s independence, the building up of the nation’s wealth and the accomplishment of their proud imperial purpose.

Just when France (possibly too late, Fascist Italy and Nazi Germany have banned this “foul and loathsome thing” from their nations’ homes, and are even putting a premium on large families, the advocates of birth-control openly boast of their success in reducing the English birth-rate from 30 to 15 in 60 years! Perhaps Britain because of her declining birth-rate, has sunk to the level of a third class Power (what time the Aztec globe-trotter will be found squatting with his cane on a broken arch of London Bridge) the effigy of some birth-control apostle of the future will fittingly have come the “Guy” of a disillusioned nation’s children.

A. D. G.

A Disclaimer

Sir,—I wish to state that the letter under the initials “L. D. S.” in your issue of February 19, did not come from the undersigned.

L. D. SKINNER.

Birth Control

Sir,—Even though A.D.G. own a bicycle, it is difficult to conjecture how he obtains statistics of illegitimacy by experience. Does one peer under cabriages? Might he not find it easier to consult a standard book of reference?

Please note that it was not I who raised the question of comparative morality.

AMERICAN.

brought into the world with some consideration of the mother’s health and the father’s earning capacity. All normal parents want children but there is a difference between the mother having three or four spared children that she can bring up properly and the woman with a pregnancy year after year resulting in six or seven children and the same woman dying before the first year. Mr. Ho Kom-tong is right in assuring that we have found a method simple, harmless, inexpensive and suitable to the masses which will not cost more than a dollar a year when properly dispensed under public health auspices.

GREAT CAUSE

Mrs. How-Martyn said:—I have great pleasure in thanking Mr. Ho Kom-tong and through him, all the good friends in Hongkong not only for myself but on behalf of the Birth Control International Centre in London which I represent. Mr. Ho Kom-tong’s speech of welcome and his delightful appreciation of what we are trying to do will be read in London at the weekly meeting of our centre with the deepest interest and appreciation. It will easily bridge the gap of 10,000 miles and they will feel in London that here in Hongkong we have friends who are working in the same spirit as ourselves for the great cause of birth control which is fundamental to the happiness of mankind.

NEW BONDS FOR OLD

CHINA GOVERNMENT SCHEME

Shanghai, Feb. 20. According to the North China Daily News, regulations governing the exchange of existing Government bonds for twenty-five-year consolidated bonds, have been issued by the Ministry of Finance.

According to Article II of the regulations, bondholders in Shanghai are to go to the Bond Exchange office, 542 Kiangsu Road, and have their old bonds exchanged for new ones, beginning March 21.

Bondholders outside of Shanghai may have their bonds exchanged in branches of the Central Bank of China, or the Bank of Communications, and the time limit for the exchange operation is set as June 23.

ing. A subsequent report said all four of the crew had tried to swim ashore. No further information had been received.

In the other case, an aircraft of No. 10 Squadron was flying at approximately one o’clock when it struck the side of a hill in Sussex, resulting in the death of three passengers. The pilot was slightly injured.

Sir Philip Sassoon expressed sympathy with the relatives of the deceased.

Press messages from Le Havre indicate that three passengers in the aircraft which was forced down and sank near Sainte Adresse must have been drowned by the weight of their clothes. A diver has been making an attempt to recover the bodies, but has not been successful, and it is feared the rising tide has carried them out to sea.

The French Minister of Marine, M. Pietri, has ordered the naval authorities at Cherbourg to take charge of the salvage operations.—British Wireless.

FIVE KNOWN DEAD

Sydney, Feb. 19.

At least five persons are known to have been killed when a passenger plane from Leeton crashed in rough country forty miles from Sydney to-night and burst into flames.

Search parties are being sent to locate the plane but that not one of its occupants survived.—Reuter Special.

THIS EVENING'S CONCERT

VERY ATTRACTIVE PROGRAMME

A concert will be given at the Helena May Institute to-day at 6.30 p.m. by Miss Lindsey Lafford, L.R.A.M., Miss Prue Lewis and Mrs. Arnold. The programme is attractive enough to warrant a large audience.

The number of Hongkong people who can listen to music without being self-consciously high-brow, or, worse, smug, low-brow, about it is not so slightly few as might be imagined. But we are lamentably lazy about taking opportunities. Music is not only the food of love; it is one of the important foods of life.

The Helena May Institute tries to keep the musical fires burning, but it is an ungrateful task struggling against colonial apathy. Mr. Lafford, Miss Lewis and Mrs. Arnold need no introduction, and their programme is carefully arranged to make a general appeal. We should make a point of encouraging these artists who give up their time and talents, or we shall find ourselves living “by bread alone”—a brutish diet.—Dustan.

FORMS CABINET

Madrid, Feb. 19.

Senor Azana, the Leftist leader, has formed a Cabinet consisting of eleven members of his Republican Left Party and two Republican Union Party members.

The new Premier was greeted with delight and enthusiasm when he appeared on the balcony of the Ministry of the Interior, accompanied by his Cabinet members.

In a brief address he promised that the first task of the new republican government would be to arrange an immediate amnesty for political prisoners and exiles, sentenced after the revolt of October, 1934.—Reuter.
